A MESSAGE FROM HEAD COACH SETH GREENBERG

It is an exciting time to be a Hokie! With our entrance into the Atlantic Coast Conference, Virginia Tech has truly come home, where it deserves to be, in the ACC.

It is also an exciting time for Virginia Tech basketball. The 2004-05 schedule brings the greatest challenge in school history; competing in the ACC. The Atlantic Coast Conference is THE BEST BASKETBALL CONFERENCE IN THE NATION, PERIOD. And we intend not just to play, but to compete and win. Our motto for the season is: ACC ACCept the challenge, ACCept the opportunity.

This season, Virginia Tech will have the toughest and most attractive home schedule in school history. With games against Duke, Virginia, Maryland, Wake Forest and our first-ever ACC game, against North Carolina on Dec. 19th. There is a pretty good chance that the Hokies will entertain the top-ranked team in the country several times during the season.

We finished our run in the Big East Conference on a very positive note. advancing to the quarterfinals of the Big East Tournament after winning our last five home games to complete a winning season. To compete in the ACC will take a lot more from our players, our coaches, our fans and our entire program.

The 2003-04 season saw Virginia Tech fans return to Cassell Coliseum in droves. As a school, we ranked sixth nationally in increased attendance. With this season's schedule, we can surpass that stat. Sellouts will rule!

Greenber

The most satisfying aspect of my first season at Virginia Tech was the support and enthusiasm demonstrated by the students, fans and Commonwealth. Virginia Tech basketball once again became a major event on our campus and Cassell Coliseum was THE place to be in Blacksburg.

> With the challenges that playing in the ACC present, we need even more support. We need a packed Cassell Coliseum every night. We need to make Cassell Coliseum the most feared arena in the ACC and, therefore, the nation. We need your support.

> > I can't wait to get started and I know you can't wait, either. Our success is your success. Our program and I thank you, and invite you to be a part of this growth.

Sett Scenberg

MEDIA INFORMATION

Press Services

The Virginia Tech Sports Information Office will be available throughout the 2004-05 basketball season to accommodate any media requests. Following are some guidelines that will make it easier for media members to cover the Virginia Tech men's basketball team. Any additional questions should be directed to Bill Dyer, assistant sports information director.

Press Credentials

Requests for press credentials are screened with care to ensure a working press row. Traditional print, television and radio (media agency) regularly assigned to cover Virginia Tech and the visiting school will receive first priority, as well as national news-gathering agencies. Credentials for on-line Internet sites will be granted to Virginia Tech operated Web sites, the visiting team's official Web site and the Atlantic Coast Conference's official Web site.

Requests should be made in writing on company letterhead at least 10 days prior to the game to guarantee consideration. Requests should be directed to Bill Dyer, assistant SID.

All other qualifying credential requests, and requests made the week of the game will be filled on a space-available basis.

Any abuse of a working credential will result in the media agency losing credential privileges.

Additional Accreditation Guidelines

• Only full-time, salaried employees intending to provide actual game coverage may receive a credential.

• A requesting media agency must represent a collective, organizational editorial voice, not simply the offerings of a single individual.

• Membership in a writers' association does not automatically qualify an agency for credentials.

• A media agency may assign one of its credentials to its on-line entity. • An on-line entity, not associated with a traditional media agency, may qualify for one credential, subject to the following conditions:

An on-line entity may receive a credential only if its own full-time staff writes a majority percentage of that site's own material.

On-line entities that focus primarily on Virginia Tech athletics and also sponsor message boards or chat rooms may receive credentials provided they adhere to a policy that requires that a posted message or opinion is identified with the actual name and city of the individual.

Any on-line service that is recognized as an outlet intended primarily for the purpose of delivering news related to the recruitment of student-athletes will not qualify for credentials.

On-line entities will not receive photography credentials.

On-line entities (other than those identified above) registering 20,000 legitimate unique users per month in each of the past 12 months will be given first consideration.

"Real-time" transmission of digital images, audio and data, including live game play-by-play and statistics, of any home game is the exclusive property of Virginia Tech and/or its rights holder(s). "Real-time" is defined as "live continual coverage or description of an event."

Photo Credentials

The NCAA has established a control policy to keep the court free from congestion. Only photographers on assignment and members of the television media are given photo credentials. Freelance or amateur photographers will not be issued credentials. Accredited photographers may work along the playing floor at both ends behind the restriction line established by the NCAA. Permission to install strobe lighting must be made, in writing, to Bill Dyer, Assistant SID, at least 10 days in advance of the game.

Media Will Call

In most cases, credentials will be mailed. Credentials may be picked up the day before a game from secretary Donna Smith in the Sports Information Office. Credentials not mailed or picked up will be held at the Will Call Window located at the front entrance to Cassell Coliseum.

Parking

Media parking is available in the lot across from Cassell Coliseum. The entrance to this lot is on Spring Road. Requests for parking credentials should be submitted to Bill Dyer.

At the Game

Cassell Coliseum is the site of Hokie home basketball games. There is no smoking permitted in Cassell Coliseum. The working press area is located courtside on the main floor. Both radio groups will be seated on press row. Virginia Tech grants broadcast rights to the official radio outlet of the visiting team on a reciprocal basis.

Game Services

The Tech Sports Information Office will be at your service throughout the game. All media will be provided game programs, rosters, press guides and other pertinent information. Computer generated statistics will be available at halftime and at the conclusion of the game. Information provided includes: play-by-play and individual and team statistics in standard NCAA box score format and a shot chart. A pregame meal is served, starting approximately one and one-half hours before tipoff in Room 309B and refreshments are available throughout the game. Members of the media work in a modern press room, which is located on the third floor of the Coliseum in Room 309B. There are four phone lines available on a firstcome, first-served basis.

Postgame Interviews

The Virginia Tech locker room is closed to the media. In accordance with ACC by-laws, the players will be made available to the media following a 10-minute cooling off period in the player lounge, inside the Bill Foster Basketball Suite. Coach Seth Greenberg and the visiting coach will hold postgame press conferences in the interview room (Room 309 on the third floor of Cassell Coliseum). The visiting coach will go first, followed by Coach Greenberg after his post-game radio interview. Media access to visiting players will be determined by the visiting SID.

Interview Policy

Virginia Tech's coaches and players will be available throughout the season for interviews by members of the news media. It is important, however, that all requests for interviews be made through the Sports Information Office at (540) 231-6726. Please allow at least 24 hours notice for a request. Media members wishing to attend practice should contact the Sports Information Office the day before the practice to be attended. This season, Virginia Tech practices are closed following the first 15 minutes.

Calling Coach Greenberg

The best way to reach Coach Seth Greenberg, other than on the ACC conference call, is by calling the Men's Basketball Office at (540) 231-6725. Coach Greenberg's secretary is Sharon Spradlin.

The ACC on the Web

The ACC site on the Internet is available at theacc.collegesports.com. The site contains current information on all facets of the Atlantic Coast Conference. Please contact Brian Morrison in the ACC media relations department for more information.

Tech Web Site

Notes, releases, statistics in .pdf form and other pertinent information are available on Tech's official Web site, hokiesports.com. The Web site will also have live stats during each home game.

CONNECTING WITH THE HOHIES

Virginia Tech has witnessed unprecedented increases in media exposure over the past several years and with the move to the Atlantic Coast Conference this season, that exposure will surely increase exponentially.

Hokie fans throughout the state, region, nation and world can find instant information on Virginia Tech athletics with the click of a mouse, the flick of a TV remote, the switching of a radio dial or the browsing of a newspaper. Media in all forms cover the Hokies home and away, and the demand for Tech basketball information grows every year.

The Virginia Tech/ISP Sports Network provides fans with game action over the airwaves and the Internet. Hokiesports.com, the athletic department's official Web site, displays live ingame statistics and features from the award-winning staff of Hokiesports the newspaper. As a member of the Atlantic Coast Conference, the Hokies are a part of a comprehensive television package, and the number of newspapers covering the Hokies has increased over the years.

The media that regularly covers the Atlantic Coast Conference is perhaps the largest and most dedicated to the sport in the world. Virginia Tech, with its geographical ties to the major markets of the ACC, will see a profound increase in media opportunities for the men's basketball program. The Hokies also will be a part of the best-known and beloved post-season event in the country, the ACC Tournament.

With the added enthusiasm of the entrance into the ACC, these media opportunities are sure to increase. That, added to the well-known fervor of Hokie fans around the world, leads to exciting times in the near future for Tech basketball.

TECH ON TELEVISION

Ask anyone associated with college basketball and they will tell you that the biggest change in the sport in recent years is the explosion of coverage of the game on television. And no place is that explosion better seen than at Virginia Tech.

The Hokies have gone from occasional to frequent television appearances in just a few years. When the Hokies joined the BIG EAST Conference for the 2000-01 season, Tech witnessed a jump in television exposure, both in games televised and the coverage of local, regional and national outlets. With this season's move to the Atlantic Coast Conference, the Hokies will see that exposure almost double in just one season.

Last season, the Hokies made 13 television appearances, including both games in the BIG EAST Tournament. This season, Tech is scheduled to make a minimum of 18 television appearances, the most in school history. Tech will have all but two of its ACC games televised this season.

Tech is fortunate to have all the variables for great television exposure: a loyal fan base that is interested in all Virginia Tech athletics, a cadre of local, state and regional media that follows the team, and an outstanding television package as a member of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

VIRGINIA TECH ON THE WEB

Regardless of where they are, Virginia Tech sports fans have the luxury of getting up-to-date information on their favorite Tech sports or athletes on a daily basis. Hokiesports.com is every Tech fan's source for fast, accurate and official coverage of all Hokie sports teams and events.

Hokiesports.com is the lead site of five official Virginia Tech Athletics sites. The other four sites are: hokietv.com, hokietickets.com, hokiepages.com and hokieshop.com. There is also a direct link to the popular on-line version of hokiesports the newspaper.

Through the efforts of the sports information department, pregame releases, game stories and individual features — as well as up-to-date statistics and results for all 21 athletic teams — are posted to hokiesports.com, providing the fastest, most complete source for Hokie news on the Web.

Other offerings include individual home pages for each of Virginia Tech's sports. Breaking news and archived releases about all Tech teams can be found, along with media guides containing player and coaching staff profiles, schedules, records, historical information and other pertinent facts for every sport.

Also, accessible on every sport's home page are the rosters, with links to player bios, schedules and results, as well as conference standings.

The "Coaches Notebook" is updated as the season progresses by the coaches themselves as they choose.

With fast "live stats," fans can view home football, men's and women's basketball, baseball, softball, men's and women's tennis, volleyball and wrestling stats as they happen via the Web.

hokietv.com provides streaming video clips that are exclusive to the site. Coach and player interviews and video coverage of events that are one-of-a-kind are available to site users. hokietv.com will broadcast the weekly Hokie

Damian Salas Webmaster

Hotline radio show, and postgame interviews in the live streaming format for the 2004 season. This past season fans could also watch home baseball games on hokietv.com. Online, fans could listen to the live radio broadcast of all Olympic sports.

hokietickets.com contains links and updates about tickets for Hokie athletics events. The site provides the user with information about season and individual game tickets. Tech fans can now visit this site and have instant access to ticketsonline, a ticket renewal system.

The popular hokiepages.com provides the user with great wallpapers to add to their computers, extra photo scrapbooks, weekly polls, on-line greeting cards and many new features that change every day.

The in-house site was first launched on Nov. 29, 1999, and has provided Hokie fans around the world various news releases, images, movies and in-depth stories. The site also provides links to live broadcasts of men's and women's basketball, as well as football, and occasionally broadcasts Olympic sports special events as well. Since August 2003, hokiesports.com has averaged more than 152,000 unique visitors per month.

The Web site is managed by Peg Morse, director of Internet services, and designed by Damian Salas, webmaster. Student interns and workers assist with the Web site development and video production.

Morse has served the athletics department since 1985 in the area of promotions and marketing until her present position was created in 1999. Salas created the first in-house Web site and maintained it from 1995 to 1998, and became a full-time athletic staff member in January 2000.

SEASON OUTLOOK

The 2004-05 basketball season brings an increased sense of excitement to Cassell Coliseum. Yes, the Hokies are coming off a winning season and the program is on a definite resurgence, but there is much more. Once a far-off dream to students, fans and athletes, Tech has "come home" to the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The challenges of playing men's basketball in the ACC are great, but the rewards are greater. The air of excitement that is palpable on the Virginia Tech campus and throughout the Commonwealth is tinged with the knowledge that Tech is now competing in the best basketball league in the country. And while the Hokies made many advances last season in its final goround in the BIG EAST, that provides little comfort for the coming season.

"The ACC is obviously a huge boost to us," head coach Seth Greenberg said. "The ACC fits Virginia Tech. There is a new respect for Virginia Tech. The ACC gets you into the door with people because kids in this region want to play in the ACC. The ACC is also a calling card to recruit nationally."

Greenberg enters his second season in Blacksburg with a young, but exciting team. A team that is strong and deep on the perimeter, but possibly a little thin up front. It will take hard work for this team to be successful, but after last season, the Hokies now have tangible proof of what hard work can do.

"We're going to be so thin up front, we're going to have to be more wide open," Greenberg said. "If I feel we have the depth, we're going to extend the defense. We have to create a more up-tempo game in order to take the big people out of the game. The best way to do that is make people go up and down.

"Our style of play will be a much more attacking style on both ends," Greenberg continued. "As great as the BIG EAST is, they let you run your offense; in the ACC they try and take you out of your offense. So you have to have more guys to make plays."

Virginia Tech was the surprise of the BIG EAST last season. Despite injuries and an extremely young team, Tech finished eighth in the league and finished the season with a winning record. To say that was not expected would be an understatement.

Gone from last year's team is first team allconference and BIG EAST leading scorer Bryant Matthews, who averaged 22.1 points per game as a senior. Perhaps no player in college basketball improved more and typified his team and program better last season than Matthews. If it could be accomplished by hard work, then Matthews accomplished it. But most importantly, Matthews instilled that same work ethic into his teammates and the improvement was noticeable game to game.

This year's team will once again be young, but with four starters returning and senior Carlos Dixon back from a redshirt season, the Hokies will have a good deal of experience, not to mention the school's best-ever recruiting class. Following a spring and summer of work in the weight room and on the court, Virginia Tech is ready to face the challenge in front of them.

The return of Dixon is a needed boost to the Hokies. A proven scorer, Dixon is the lone senior on the team. He missed the entire 2003-04 season following surgery on a fractured left foot. He will supply a needed (three-point) shot in the arm to this team. Dixon has started 65 of the 75 games he has played at Virginia Tech.

"Carlos has got an NBA body," Greenberg said. "He's used the year off to really develop his body. He can shoot the ball. He needs to use his size and quickness to get into the lane and get his shots. He's another guy who is going to be asked to rebound the basketball.

"He's got a great instinct. He's active and quick. He has to understand that he has got to be the hardest worker and the best teammate. He's got to be a winning player."

Dixon has spent the year wisely. He has added weight and worked hard on his shot selection. Although not able to play, he continued his role as a team leader last season and, most importantly, earned his degree in May.

Dixon will anchor a perimeter that will be the team's strength in its initial campaign in the ACC. Dixon joins returning starters Zabian Dowdell, Jamon Gordon and Markus Sailes on the perimeter. Three of this year's signees, Marquie Cooke, Deron Washington and Wynton Witherspoon, also figure to see action on the perimeter this season, as does junior Shawn Harris. Finding playing time for this talented group will be a challenge for the coaching staff. Expect to see any four of this group on the floor at the same time this season.

All three returners in the backcourt averaged at least 32 minutes per game last season, and by season's end had developed into one of the best young backcourts in the league. Dowdell was the starting point guard last season, but also will see time at the two spot as a sophomore. He stepped right into the role and gave Tech something it never had in its previous three seasons in the BIG EAST: a true point. He is one of the team's top outside shooters and is a perfect fit for the team's reliance on versatile players.

"Zabian Dowdell is a guy who we empowered last year and gave him freedom and he embraced it," Greenberg said. "He is deceptively quick and he is tricky with the ball. He can play one or two guard, because he is one of our best perimeter shooters. He's got excellent range and has also developed that ability to get to the rim."

Gordon may wind up being the heart and soul of this team. There is no tougher competitor than Gordon. He has tremendous court sense and an ability to be in the middle of the action. A knee injury last season kept him out of the first half of conference play, but when he returned, he was one of the best freshman guards in the country and led the BIG EAST in steals as a freshman, averaging 2.1 steals per game in league play. "Jamon Gordon is probably the most competitive and the strongest of the sophomores," Greenberg said. "He's worked very, very hard this summer and has gotten bigger and stronger and even tougher. He has the ability to get in the lane and make plays and has great anticipation. He is fearless and refuses to back down to anyone."

To say that Sailes was the biggest surprise on the team last season would not do justice to the job he did. Entering the season, Sailes was tabbed to back up Dowdell at the point. With the injuries that afflicted the team, Sailes was put into duty as the number-three guard. All he did last season was become a defensive stopper and one of the top players in the league handling the ball.

Simply put, Sailes didn't make many mistakes. After playing more than eight times as many minutes as a sophomore than his freshman season, Sailes enters his junior season as a solid, everyday performer for the Hokies. A foot injury at the end of the season has kept him out of spring drills, but not the weight room. Sailes has used this offcourt time to his advantage, to get stronger.

"The thing I most respect about Markus is that he played to his strengths," Greenberg said. "He did what we needed him to do. He took care of the basketball and defended and you could see his growth as the season went along. I was probably as proud of him as any player we had."

Cooke comes to Virginia Tech with the best high school credentials since Dell Curry. Considered by many the best player in the Commonwealth of Virginia last season, Cooke brings a toughness and competitiveness to the team that is a perfect fit for the Hokies. He is the type of player that Greenberg is looking to populate his roster and that Tech probably doesn't sign if not a member of the ACC. Expect him to step in and start from day one.

"Marquie Cooke is obviously the most mature of the freshman group," Greenberg said. "He's physically strong. He's got a toughness about him, a maturity about him. He has the ability to get into the lane. He's an attacking-type player and a good on-ball defender."

Washington is as physically gifted an athlete to ever play at Tech. Tall, long and lean, he possesses the natural ability to grow into a dominant wing player for Tech. The son of 15-year NFL veteran Lionel Washington, Washington also has the physical toughness. After suffering a shoulder injury last season, he would sometimes pop the shoulder back in and keep playing.

"Deron Washington is a freakish athlete," Greenberg said. "He's explosive and hard-playing. He's thin but strong. He comes from great genes, as his dad played for 15 years in the NFL. He is as hard a working and hard a playing individual as I saw last year. He doesn't take a play off and he's relentless going to the glass. He runs extremely hard." Witherspoon is a long, tall player with good court sense and a knack for the ball. He is a shooter with range and has solid athletic ability. Witherspoon fits well into the philosophy of the program and should, along with his freshman classmates, see immediate action for the Hokies.

"Wynton Witherspoon is a multi-dimensional player who can play any perimeter position, and that's the way we play. We play with three guards, so that's important," Greenberg said. "He has the ability to shoot the ball and shoot the ball with range. He's very long; much longer than he is tall. He has deceptive quickness and an unbelievable feel for the game for such a young player. He really loves the game."

Harris is a Seth Greenberg type of player. A strong, tough player, he shows no fear on the court and has a knack for making plays. The junior missed the first part of last season with a foot injury, but made some big shots during the year and gives the staff another versatile player on the wing. Harris will draw tough defensive assignments and could be played in any number of situations. His big body and maturity will help him this season.

"Shawn Harris is a guy who doesn't really have a position, so we are going to move him around," Greenberg said. "He has a toughness, he's physical and he's a winning player. Our style of play this year will be kind of non-positional and that will help Shawn. You will see him guard players much bigger than him this year. He's a guy who loves the game and is very competitive. He has maturity and leadership skills."

A pair of walk-ons, junior Bob Ritchie and sophomore Marcus Travis, will provide depth for Tech on the perimeter. Ritchie became a wellliked and respected player last season for his work during practice and his unselfishness. Greenberg knows the importance of walk-ons in the program and Ritchie was a valuable player last season during game preparations. Travis joined the team over the summer and brings another big, physical perimeter player to help in practice and games.

In the frontcourt, the Hokies are, to say the least, thin. With junior Allen Calloway and sophomore Coleman Collins as the only returning scholarship post players, the Hokies must turn to a more pressure dominated, full-court philosophy to maximize the limited depth in the front court.

Collins had an interesting first year for the Hokies. Although he was only 17 years old, Collins became the starting post player for Tech during conference play. He played well in the exhibition season, but suffered a foot injury and missed most of the non-conference slate. When he returned, he faced the likes of Emeka Okafor, Ryan Gomes and the rest of the BIG EAST post players. Through it all, Collins continued to improve and grow.

"Coleman Collins improved in front of your eyes," Greenberg said. "He's extremely skilled and is a very good athlete. He's got to work on a goto move and not settling, but we have a lot of expectations for him. He's got to rebound the ball. He can do a lot of different things for the team. To say his best basketball is in front of him is an understatement."

Though he has plenty of work to do, Collins has a tremendous future at Tech. An outstanding student, Collins has potential and is working hard to realize that potential.

Although not a big body, Calloway uses his outstanding athleticism to its fullest advantage. Another of the players who fans could see everyday growth in last season, Calloway became comfortable in his role and really blossomed during the second half of the season. Calloway will be called upon to rebound more this season, but still supply defense and shot-blocking for the Hokies.

"Allen Calloway has probably taken more advantage of his situation than anyone," Greenberg said. "You could see his growth as the season went along and that carried over into the spring. He's done a great job this spring and summer in lifting and getting stronger. He's worked on his game. The light bulb has gone on and he's excited about it. He's a guy who has bought in to the work ethic. Allen Calloway is trying to seize his potential. He's going to have to rebound the ball."

The frontcourt got a needed boost during the summer with the signing of Robert Krabbendam. A 6-11 international player, Krabbendam has the ability to step right in and play immediately.

"He is a legitimate 6-11 1/2 with terrific skills and a feel for the game," Greenberg said. "He has put on 11 pounds in three weeks. He is extremely skilled, very competitive and an outstanding passer.

The third returner up front is sophomore walk-on Chris Tucker. The local player saw limited action as a freshman, but has worked hard in the weight room during the off-season and could provide some much needed help up front. He will have the opportunity to earn increased playing time this season.

The non-conference schedule is highlighted by the Hokies playing preseason top five Mississippi State in the Sugar Bowl Basketball Classic in New Orleans, but the rest of the non-league games also have some kick to it. Western Michigan visits Cassell Coliseum coming off a 26-win season and NCAA appearance and Chattanooga won 19 games a year ago. Tech also has trips to state foes William & Mary and VMI and former BIG EAST opponent St. John's on the season's slate.

Allen Calloway looks to continue his constantly improving play again this season.

Chris Tucker should be a valuable frontcourt reserve for the Hokies this year.

"Having a chance to play in the Sugar Bowl, against a team that a lot of people pick to be in the Final Four, is going to be a tremendous challenge for our team," Greenberg said.

The Hokies first go at the ACC is, well, exciting. Tech will play its first-ever ACC game at home against North Carolina on Dec. 19. Add in home games against Clemson, NC State, Virginia, Wake Forest, Duke, Miami and Maryland and a case can be made for the toughest and most anticipated home schedule ever.

"We have a great home schedule in the ACC," Greenberg said. "Our non-conference games have some teams that played well last season and have a rich tradition. Western Michigan made the NCAA Tournament, Chattanooga won 19 games. These teams have had recent success and expect to win."

Though it would be tough to peg this team right now, fans should expect to see a more wide-open, exciting brand of basketball. The Hokies should be very proactive and force opponents to make plays. Tough, in-your-face basketball will be the norm in Cassell Coliseum this season. If fans are looking for a team with an identity, they will find it here. Tech's vocabulary will be ripe with terms like hard work, mental toughness and competitive. This should be fun.

"Having team chemistry is going to be imperative to our success," Greenberg concluded. "We have to get guys to let things happen. Make things happen on defense and let things happen on offense. That will be very important to us."

HEAD COACH SETH GREENBERG

After a first season that saw him guide Virginia Tech to new heights in its quest to re-establish its place among collegiate basketball's elite, Seth Greenberg is in his second season as the head coach of the Hokies.

A new era in Virginia Tech men's basketball began on April 3, 2003, as the Hokies introduced Greenberg as their 27th head coach. A proven program builder, an admired and innovative tactician and an experienced recruiter, Greenberg guides a Tech program that made tremendous strides in his first season and looks to improve even more this year, in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"I believe we have found someone who has extensive head basketball coaching experience and beneficial recruiting ties throughout the Eastern Seaboard," Virginia Tech Director of Athletics Jim Weaver said at the time of Greenberg's hiring.

Optimism was high as Greenberg began his tenure at Tech, but his first season in Blacksburg turned out, possibly, better than anyone could have hoped for. The Hokies played well throughout the season, despite being limited by injuries. And, most importantly, the team improved consistently throughout the year.

The aggressive, up-tempo style that Greenberg installed in his first season with the Hokies has seen immediate dividends and has brought a renewed sense of excitement to Cassell Coliseum, as well as to the "Hokie Nation." The Hokies led the BIG EAST Conference in steals, turnover margin and assist/turnover ratio in 2003-04.

When the team needed to step up, it did. The Hokies finished the 2003-04 season strong with a 15-14 overall record and a best ever 7-9 BIG EAST mark. The Hokies entered the BIG EAST Tournament as the eighth seed and defeated Rutgers, 61-58, in the first round before falling in the quarterfinals to nationally ranked Pittsburgh. Tech finished the regular season winning its last three games and last five home games. Picked to finish last in the league in the coaches' preseason poll, the Hokies finished the regular season in eighth place.

A proven recruiter, Greenberg has captured the excitement of the pending ACC move and signed perhaps Tech's best recruiting class. With the loss of only one starter, the future looks bright for the Hokies.

Perhaps the biggest influences seen in the program have been the work ethic and attention to detail that Greenberg and his staff have instilled. And when speaking of hard work, the principle begins at the top, with Greenberg himself. Long hours of watching film, instructing players and program development, along with tireless work in promoting the program and university and being involved in the community have made Greenberg a popular face on the Blacksburg campus and in the "Hokie Nation."

Greenberg came to Virginia Tech from the University of South Florida, where he served as head coach for seven seasons. At USF, Greenberg had a record of 108-100. Prior to USF, Greenberg was the head coach at Long Beach State University, where his overall record was 105-70. In his 14 years as a head coach, Greenberg has an overall record of 228-184. An important side note is that, following his initial seasons at LBSU and USF, Greenberg compiled a 194-134 record at the two schools.

During his time at Long Beach and USF, Greenberg's teams posted impressive records against major conference opponents. Included during his Long Beach State tenure were wins "I thought Seth Greenberg did a remarkable job in leading Virginia Tech to a winning record last season, in arguably the toughest conference in the country. His team was not offensively gifted, but his adjustments and strategies gave his team a chance to be competitive against a slew of NCAA Tournament teams. After watching his team on tape, I got a chance to see Virginia Tech in the Big East Tournament, and no team played harder or showed more grit. Seth Greenberg is a really good coach, and I really believe that he has Tech on the winning track."

over four nationally ranked teams, including a 64-49 victory against then-No. 1 Kansas at Allen Fieldhouse in 1992-93. At South Florida, his teams were 2-0 against Ohio State, had two wins over Texas and won at Pittsburgh during the Panthers' run to the Sweet 16 in the 2001-02 season. The Bulls defeated eventual Final Four team Wisconsin in the 1999-2000 season.

At South Florida, Greenberg led the Bulls to two National Invitation Tournament appearances and victories in Conference USA play against nationally ranked opponents.

During his years in collegiate coaching, Greenberg has helped develop many outstanding players.

Head coach Seth Greenberg with his wife, Karen, and their three daughters (1-r) Paige, Jacqueline and Ella.

From his time at Long Beach State, former 49er Lucious Harris is the Big West Conference's alltime leading scorer. And in just his first season at Virginia Tech, Bryant Matthews led the Big East Conference in scoring and was second in assists, behind teammate Jamon Gordon.

While at South Florida, Greenberg recruited and coached Conference USA's all-time leading scorer Altron Jackson and number-four scorer B.B. Waldron. Waldron is second in career rebounds in C-USA and the pair is one-two in field goals made in the league. Also, Reggie Kohn is C-USA's all-time leader in assists and former Bull Cedric Smith and Waldron are first and second in league history in steals.

A 1978 graduate of Fairleigh Dickinson, Greenberg was a four-year letterwinner under head coach Al Lobalbo. His father, the late Ralph Greenberg, played at Long Island University under coaching legend Clair Bee, one of college basketball's all-time winningest coaches.

Greenberg began his coaching career as an assistant at Columbia in 1978. He moved to Pittsburgh two years later where he made two trips to the NCAA Tournament in three years with the Panthers. He then spent the 1983-84 season at Virginia, helping the Cavs reach the Final Four before moving on to Miami as an assistant under future Virginia Tech head coach Bill Foster. There, he helped revive a program that had been dormant for a number of years.

Greenberg first went to Long Beach as associate head coach under Joe Harrington and, three years later, replaced Harrington when he accepted the head coaching position at Colorado. In his six seasons at LBSU, Greenberg led the 49ers to two NCAA Tournament appearances and one NIT appearance. He led LBSU to two Big West Conference championships and one Big West regular season title. While at LBSU, the 49ers defeated four nationally ranked teams. Greenberg also tutored two current NBA players — Bryon Russell (Utah) and Lucious Harris (New Jersey) — and former NBA player Juaquin Hawkins. The hope is that former Hokie Bryant Matthews will join that list of NBA players this season.

This past summer, Greenberg received a lofty honor when he was inducted into the Five Star Basketball Camp's Hall of Fame. The honor, shared by some of the greatest coaches like Rick "The number one ingredient Seth has is enthusiasm. His game preparation is excellent. The thing I like most about the team is they always play hard no matter what the score is. They dive for loose balls when they've been down by 15 with under a minute left and that shows me something. Coach Greenberg has a lot of passion for the game and that is important."

Pitino and Hubie Brown, was bestowed for the many years that Greenberg has been a part of the nation's top summer basketball camp, as an instructor and guest speaker.

Known as one of the more insightful and knowledgeable coaches in the college game, Greenberg served as an analyst for College Sports Television's coverage of the NCAA Tournament last season and is often a guest on national, regional and local sports talk shows, including ESPN Radio and the Jim Rome Show. Greenberg and his wife, Karen, are the parents of three daughters, Paige (16), Ella (13) and Jacqueline (9). The Greenbergs are active in a number of organizations and causes, including the Boys and Girls Club. This May, The Greenbergs, along with Roanoke College coach and former Hokie Page Moir and his wife and VMI coach Bart Bellairs and his wife will initiate "An Evening at Center Court," a fund-raising dinner at the Hotel Roanoke for benefit the American Cancer Society's Coaches vs. Cancer campaign.

A TALH WITH SETH GREENBERG

How pleased were you with your first season at Virginia Tech?

"I was really proud of our basketball players. I think they allowed themselves to buy into the commitment and the work ethic that we expected of them. I think as the season went along, the veterans understood where I was coming from, learning to compete each and every play. I feel that we made progress. We are far from a finished product. We are just scratching the surface of where we need to be, if we are going to be successful long-term."

How has Tech's entrance into the ACC been received in basketball circles?

"The entrance into the ACC, this year, everybody feels is probably both a blessing and a curse. This might be one of the best years in the history of the ACC, in terms of the quality of competition and play and the experience. But they also know the history of the ACC. People feel that we are where we belong. The BIG EAST was a great conference, but it really wasn't a great fit for Virginia Tech. People in this area, this geographic footprint, couldn't relate to the BIG EAST as a whole. We really don't have a lot in common with the Providences, the Seton Halls. But now, we have a great deal in common with our fellow members."

What have been some of the keys to your early successes in recruiting at Virginia Tech?

"The ACC has been a huge boost to our recruiting, especially here in this geographic region. The ACC is a calling card. Kids want to play in this conference, be part of this conference. The opportunity to play is very important. The exposure and the commitment the university has made to the program in terms of upgrading our facilities and things of that nature are very important."

How has Virginia Tech basketball advanced toward the way you eventually want this program to be?

"We are a long way from where I want us to be. I don't want people to have an unrealistic expectation of where we are and where we are going due to us having a winning season last year. We are in our infancy. We have 11 players on scholarship. We haven't gotten into the style of play that I would like us to play. We have some talented, young, athletic players and that's good. We just need more of them and get them to mature."

What are some of the challenges for you to coach in your third major conference in three years?

"It's 36 scouting reports of different opponents, excluding the non-conference games. The biggest thing in changing leagues is you need to get a feel for how the other coach coaches, what are his points of emphasis. We always ask our players, 'Who are they? How do they work? What is their style?' You have to decide, when you establish a game plan, what you want to give and what you want to take away. The more you are familiar with an opponent, the more you will have a better feel for what they are going to do."

What changes should fans expect to see from last year to this season?

"Hopefully, we will play a little bit faster and be a little bit more assertive on the defensive end. We did lead the league in steals last year, but we're going to miss Bryant Matthews. I think we will have greater depth and overall, better athleticism. Last year's freshmen, who are now sophomores, will have a better understanding and more maturity, but we're still going to be a very young basketball team.

"I'd like for us to get up and down the court a little bit more and extend our defense more. I'd like to play at a faster tempo at both ends of the court."

What have you learned about the university since you have been here that you may not have known coming in?

"I had an idea, but really didn't understand the tremendous amount of pride that the Virginia Tech family has in their university. The people in this community really made our staff and our family feel really welcome and they embraced us. This is a great university and Hokies have a great pride in what that represents. It's important for me to communicate to our players that it's very special to be part of this university."

How important is Virginia Tech's past in building for the future?

"We have a history and we need to have a link to our history. A link to the Dell Currys, the Bimbo Coles, the Allan Bristows. We have a rich tradition and at one time, had one of the nation's elite programs. We need to reach back into that to let people know that it's been done here and it can be done again. We want to make those people a part of our program and bring them back and allow our players to rub shoulders with them and develop a relationship with the people that made this program great."

What do you expect from Cassell Coliseum crowds this season?

"Cassell is such a tremendous asset to our program. It's a great home venue; it's a great home environment. Our students are so passionate about what we are doing in the ACC; it takes it to another level. I expect to have an exciting atmosphere, an electric-like atmosphere, the type of atmosphere that is indicative of what ACC basketball is all about. When you think about ACC basketball, you think about the best environments in college basketball. Great arenas, great fans, educated fans, but passionate fans. And absolutely crazed student sections."

Brad Greenberg begins his second season at Virginia Tech and his first as Associate Head Men's Basketball Coach. He was the first assistant hired when his brother, Seth, was named head coach and was promoted to Associate Head Coach in September 2004.

At Virginia Tech, Greenberg serves as the top assistant in the program. His duties are varied and wide-ranging. He oversees scheduling, scouting and game preparation and also assists in recruiting with a focus on international prospects. Greenberg works closely with his brother in conducting practices and on-court coaching duties.

"Brad is a tremendous asset to our program," Seth Greenberg said. "His depth of knowledge and experience help us in so many ways. His preparation and organizational skills are a great value to our team."

Greenberg came to Tech with 25 years of successful NBA and NCAA coaching, management and media experience. Greenberg served the previous two seasons as director of basketball operations at the University of South Florida. He was general manager and vice president of basketball operations for the Philadelphia 76ers from 1996-97. While with the Sixers, Greenberg drafted Allen Iverson, the 2001 NBA MVP.

Greenberg spent eight seasons with the Portland Trail Blazers. From 1989-92, he served as the Blazers' director of player personnel and from 1992-95 was the team's vice president of player personnel. During those years Greenberg helped acquire or recruit for the Trail Blazers Buck Williams, Rod Strickland, Danny Ainge, and recent Basketball Hall of Fame inductee Drazen Petrovic (the premier European player of his time). While in Portland he helped build

RYAN 000M

Ryan Odom is in his second season as an assistant coach at Virginia Tech.

In his time in Blacksburg, Odom has quickly established himself as one of the top young recruiters in the nation. The 2003-04 Hokie recruiting class is generally considered perhaps of the best in school history.

In his first season with the Hokies, Tech posted a winning record and finished eighth in the BIG EAST Conference.

Odom came to Blacksburg from American University, where he served three seasons as an assistant under Jeff Jones. At American, Odom was responsible for the coordination of AU's recruiting efforts, as well as assisting with the on-court development of the program's student-athletes.

Before American, Odom spent one season as an assistant coach at UNC Asheville for head coach Eddie Biedenbach. Prior to that, he served two seasons as an assistant coach at Furman under Larry Davis and one season under Seth Greenberg at South Florida as an administrative assistant.

Odom is a 1996 graduate of Hampden-Sydney with a degree in economics. The Tigers' starting point guard for four seasons, and team captain as a senior, Odom helped lead HSC to an 80-30 overall record during his career and twice led teams to the NCAA Division III tournament. He finished his career as Hampden-Sydney's leading three-point shooter and was fourth in assists.

He and his wife, Lucia, have one son, Connor. Odom is the son of Dave Odom, the head coach at South Carolina.

"Ryan Odom has a tremendous basketball pedigree," Greenberg said. "He has lived the game and business since childhood. He is an excellent teacher and communicator and has a network of contacts, both nationally and internationally, second to none."

STACEY PALMORE

Stacey Palmore begins his first season as an assistant coach at Virginia Tech after spending the 2003-04 season as an assistant at the College of Charleston. At Virginia Tech, Palmore is responsible for off-campus recruiting, as well as game preparations and student-athlete development.

Prior to his time at Charleston, Palmore spent one season as an assistant at University of Evansville. Palmore also served as an assistant coach and recruiting coordinator at Western Carolina from 2000 until 2002, where he recruited and coached 2003-04 NCAA scoring average runner-up Kevin Martin. Martin was the first-round pick of the Sacramento Kings in the 2004 NBA Draft. While at Evansville, he helped the Purple Aces to a 12-16 mark in 2002-03 after posting just seven wins the previous season.

A 1993 graduate of Livingstone (N.C.) College, Palmore played basketball and golf at the collegiate level. As a junior and senior he was in the nation's top 10 in Division II three-point field goal percentage, and was co-captain as a junior and senior.

He coached at Warwick High School in Newport News, Va., for three years as an assistant coach and then was elevated to head coach in 1996 and coached former Hokie and current NFL superstar Michael Vick of the Atlanta Falcons.

He spent one year at Lander (S.C.) University as an assistant coach and then served two years as assistant coach at Erskine (S.C.) College before joining the staff at Western Carolina. Since 1994, Palmore has directed the Shoot 4 The Stars Basketball Camp in Greenwood, S.C.

"Stacey Palmore is the complete package," Greenberg said. "He has outstanding people skills and possesses strong connections in the Atlantic Coast region. He has a dynamic personality and is a great fit for Virginia Tech as we move into the Atlantic Coast Conference. He will be a tremendous addition to our program."

Rick Hall

Director of Men's Basketball Operations

Rick Hall is in his second season working with the Virginia Tech men's basketball team and in his first season as Director of Men's Basketball Operations. Hall was an assistant to Head Coach Seth Greenberg last season.

His duties with the Hokies include a wide variety of assignments, including team travel arrangements, assisting with on-campus recruiting and day-to-day office duties. He will work as camp director for the Seth Greenberg Basketball Camps.

Hall came to Virginia Tech from William Fleming High School in Roanoke, Va., where he served as head boys basketball coach for two seasons. While with Fleming, he also served as radio color commentator for the Roanoke Dazzle of the NBDL. It was his second stint with the Colonels, as he had been an assistant coach with the school in the 1988-89 season.

From 1994-1999, Hall worked in the Continental Basketball Association with the Sioux Falls Skyforce, the Oklahoma City Cavalry and the Shreveport Storm. In the 1994-95 season he was assistant coach and Director of Player Personnel with Shreveport, and in the 1995-96 season was the team's head coach. Hall coached in the CBA finals as an assistant coach during his last three CBA seasons, winning one CBA Championship in 1997 with Oklahoma City. During Hall's five-year CBA tenure, 20 players he coached received NBA call-ups.

Prior to his time in the CBA, Hall was an assistant coach at Coastal Carolina University in the 1993-94 season and assistant coach at Roanoke College from 1989-93. Hall began his coaching career in 1983, spending five seasons as an assistant coach at Cave Spring High School in Roanoke, before moving to William Fleming for the first time.

Hall attended Ferrum Junior College, where he played basketball in 1978-79. He attended Virginia Tech on a football scholarship and lettered in 1979. Hall is a 1983 graduate of Virginia Tech with a degree in marketing education.

Ryan Dowley Video Coordinator

Ryan Dowley begins his first season as video coordinator in the Virginia Tech men's basketball office.

His duties with the Hokies include coordinating the office's video operations, assisting with travel arrangements and assisting with on-campus recruiting. He will work with head coach Seth Greenberg with daily assignments and work with the Seth Greenberg Basketball Camps.

Dowley comes to the Hokies following one season as Director of Basketball Operations at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay. At Green Bay, he organized travel plans, edited film and coordinated film exchange.

He served as an assistant coach at Shores Academy, a private school in Ocala, Fla., during the 2002-03 season, and was an administrative assistant at Liberty University from 2000-02.

Dowley graduated from Liberty with a degree in sport management. As an undergraduate, he served as a student manager with the men's basketball team from 1996-2000. He served as head manager as a senior.

THE ATLANTIC COAST CONFERENCE

The Tradition

Consistency. It's the mark of true excellence in any endeavor.

However, in today's intercollegiate athletics, competition has become so balanced and so competitive that it is virtually impossible to maintain a high level of consistency.

Yet the Atlantic Coast Conference has defied the odds. Now in its 52nd year of competition, the ACC has long enjoyed the reputation as one of the strongest and most competitive intercollegiate conferences in the nation. And that is not mere conjecture, the numbers support it.

Since the league's inception in 1953, ACC schools have captured 91 national championships, including 47 in women's competition and 44 in men's. In addition, NCAA individual titles have gone to ACC student-athletes 116 times in men's competition and 57 in women's action.

If success is best measured in terms of wins and losses, then the ACC is unrivaled in NCAA annals. With Maryland's victory over Indiana in the 2002 NCAA title game, ACC teams have captured nine NCAA basketball championships, including five over the last 14 years.

No conference has posted a better NCAA Tournament record than the ACC since the NCAA's inaugural tournament in 1938. The 11 current conference members have posted an NCAA Tournament-best mark of 315-164 for a sterling .647 winning percentage against the nation's toughest competition.

A year ago, the ACC had two teams — Georgia Tech and Duke — in the Final Four for the second time in four years and fifth time overall. In the 20 years of the 64-team field, the ACC has produced 20 Final Four teams, an average of one per year and seven more than any other conference.

Since 1985, when the NCAA Tournament was expanded to 64 teams, ACC teams have been even more impressive compiling a 203-96 (.679) NCAA record, including 56 "Sweet 16" appearances and 20 Final Four berths. Since 1985, 56 of the 102 ACC teams receiving NCAA berths have won at least two NCAA Tournament games.

Since 1990, the ACC — with a 181-173 record — is the only conference with a winning record against ranked non-conference foes.

North Carolina and Duke lead all ACC schools with three NCAA championships each. NC State has two national titles to its credit and Maryland one. The Tar Heels captured NCAA titles in 1957, 1982 and 1993 while the Blue Devils won their third title in 2001, following back-to-back championships in 1991 and 1992.

Virginia Tech director of athletics Jim Weaver and Atlantic Coast Conference commissioner John Swofford at the press conference in Greensboro, N.C., announcing that Virginia Tech and Miami would be joining the ACC.

The Wolfpack walked away with the coveted crown in 1974 and 1983 while the Terps claimed the 2002 national title.

The stature of ACC basketball is no where more clearly defined than by its regional and national television exposure as an all-time high 172 televised games involving ACC teams headline the league's 2004-05 schedule, including a record-setting 261 appearances. ACC teams are slated to make 132 appearances on national television networks and 79 of the league's 88 regular season conference games, including 36 on national television networks, are scheduled to be televised.

This past year the ACC posted a 14-6 mark in NCAA Tournament play with the six losses by a total of 21 points. For the second time in league history, eight ACC teams took part in post-season play and six of the nine league teams were ranked in the final AP and coaches' polls. League teams were 107-24 (.816) against non-conference opponents and 13-12 versus ranked teams, including a 3-0 mark against No. 1 ranked teams. The ACC finished the 2003-04 season with the highest regular season RPI rating ever accorded a conference.

2003-04 in Review

The 2003-04 academic year concluded with the league pocketing three more national team titles and six individual NCAA crowns. In all, the ACC has won 48 national team titles over the last 14 years. The ACC's 2003-04 national champions were Wake Forest in field hockey, North Carolina in women's soccer and Virginia in women's lacrosse. Overall, 66 ACC teams took part in postseason play, compiling a 101-66-4 (.596) record.

A total of 169 student-athletes from the ACC earned first, second or third-team All-America honors this past year. In addition, the ACC produced nine national Players of the Year, two national Rookies of the Year and three national Coaches of the Year.

The ACC placed at least one team in the top 10 nationally in 17 sports. In all, 31 ACC teams finished their season with a top 10 ranking.

The Championships

The conference will conduct championship competition in 25 sports during the 2004-05 academic year — 12 for men and 13 for women.

The first ACC championship was held in swimming on February 25, 1954. The conference did not conduct championships in cross country, wrestling or tennis during the first year.

The 12 sports for men include football, cross country, soccer, basketball, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, wrestling, baseball, tennis, golf and lacrosse. Fencing, which was started in 1971, was discontinued in 1981.

Women's sports were initiated in 1977 with the first championship event being held in tennis at Wake Forest University. Championships for women are currently conducted in cross country, volleyball, field hockey, soccer, basketball, swimming, indoor and outdoor track, tennis, golf, lacrosse, softball and rowing.

A History

The Atlantic Coast Conference was founded on May 8, 1953, at the Sedgefield Inn near Greensboro, N.C., with seven charter members — Clemson, Duke, Maryland, North Carolina, North Carolina State, South Carolina and Wake Forest — drawing up the conference by-laws.

The withdrawal of seven schools from the Southern Conference came early on the morning of May 8, 1953, during the Southern Conference's annual spring meeting. On June 14, 1953, the seven members met in Raleigh, N.C., where a set of by-laws was adopted and the name became officially the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Suggestions from fans for the name of the new conference appeared in the region's newspapers prior to the meeting in Raleigh. Some of the names suggested were: Dixie, Mid South, Mid Atlantic, East Coast, Seaboard, Colonial, Tobacco, Blue-Gray, Piedmont, Southern Seven and the Shoreline.

Duke's Eddie Cameron recommended that the name of the conference be the Atlantic Coast Conference, and the motion was passed unanimously. The meeting concluded with each member institution assessed $200 to pay for conference expenses.

On December 4, 1953, conference officials met again at Sedgefield and officially admitted the University of Virginia as the league's eighth member. The first, and only, withdrawal of a school from the ACC came on June 30, 1971, when the University of South Carolina tendered its resignation.

The ACC operated with seven members until April 3, 1978, when the Georgia Institute of Technology was admitted. The Atlanta school had withdrawn from the Southeastern Conference in January 1964.

The ACC expanded to nine members on July 1, 1991, with the addition of Florida State University.

The conference expanded to 11 members on July 1, 2004, with the addition of the University of Miami and Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University. On October 17, 2003, Boston College accepted an invitation to become the league's 12th member starting with the 2005-06 academic year.

CONFERENCE TIMELINE

• Oct. 21, 1892 — Tech played its first football game, recording a 14-10 win over St. Albans, a private boys prep school in Radford.

• Feb. 25-26, 1921 — Tech, under the leadership of athletics director C.P. "Sally" Miles, joined the Southern Intercollegiate Conference as a charter member. Other members included Alabama, Alabama Polytechnic Institute (Auburn), Clemson, Georgia, Georgia School of Technology (Georgia Tech), Kentucky, Maryland, Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College (Mississippi State), North Carolina, North Carolina State, Tennessee, Virginia, and Washington and Lee. In 1922, Louisiana State, Mississippi, South Carolina, Vanderbilt and Tulane joined the conference.

• December 1923 — The name of the conference was officially changed to the Southern Conference. Also, conference officials added the University of the South to the conference. The following year, VMI joined the conference, and in 1929, Duke joined.

• 1932 — It was agreed that the 13 southernmost members should form a separate conference. The Southeastern Conference, thus, was formed with Alabama, Auburn, Florida, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Kentucky, LSU, Mississippi, Mississippi State, Sewanee, Tennessee, Tulane and Vanderbilt as the members.

• 1953 — The following seven colleges withdrew to form the Atlantic Coast Conference: Clemson, Duke, North Carolina, North Carolina State, Maryland, South Carolina and Wake Forest.

• June 1965 — Tech withdrew from the Southern Conference.

• July 1965-May 1978 — Tech competed as an independent in virtually every varsity sport.

• May 1978 — Tech ends its 13-year status as a major independent by accepting a bid to join the Metropolitan Collegiate Athletic Conference (a.k.a. the Metro) for all sports except football.

The Hokies join Cincinnati, Florida State, Louisville, Memphis State, St. Louis and Tulane in the Metro, which was founded in 1975.

"Affiliation with the Metro Conference is beneficial from the standpoint of scheduling, national identity and postseason activity," Tech president William Lavery said. "It will provide us with national exposure and television coverage, as well as improve the basketball schedule and bring good teams to Blacksburg."

On July 1, 2003, ACC commissioner John Swofford announced that Virginia Tech and Miami would become the league's 10th and 11th members.

• Feb. 5, 1991 — After 26 years as a football independent, Tech officially accepts a bid to join the newly created BIG EAST Football Conference. Tech joined Miami, Syracuse, Boston College, Pittsburgh, West Virginia, Temple and Rutgers as charter members of the conference.

• January 1995 — Five Metro members — UNC Charlotte, Tulane, Louisville, Southern Miss and South Florida — voted Tech and Virginia Commonwealth out of the league. At the time, those schools were planning a merger with other Midwestern schools (hence, the birth of Conference USA) and the Hokies and Rams were not interested in such a merger. As a result, those five league members decided to vote them out of the league.

• Feb. 3, 1995 — Tech, VCU and the Metro agree to a $2.27 million settlement, which the Hokies and Rams split. A portion of conference revenue was going to be withheld from the two schools, but this settlement put an end to the issue.

• Two weeks later, 1995 — Tech joins the Atlantic 10 Conference for all sports except football, which is in the BIG EAST, and wrestling, which is in the Colonial. (Tech wrestling began competition in the Eastern Wrestling League in the 1997-98 season.)

over the Colonial because of three factors.

"No. 1 was Northeast exposure," Braine told Bill Roth in the Feb. 17 issue of The Hokie Huddler. "No. 2 were the basketball rankings of the Atlantic 10 and the high level of play in the league. And No. 3, most of our out-of-state students are from the Northeast."

• June 24, 1999 — Tech receives proposal from the BIG EAST Conference, inviting the school to join the conference for all sports.

• July 20, 1999 — Tech submits a counterproposal, addressing financial issues that the school has with the original proposal. BIG EAST athletic directors address those concerns at the athletics directors' meetings in mid-July and submit the proposal to each school's respective president for a vote.

• Aug. 24, 1999 — Tech and the BIG EAST announce that the Hokies will join the conference for all sports beginning in 2001-02.

"Virginia Tech is thrilled to become a full member of the BIG EAST Conference and looks forward to its academic and athletic associations with the entire conference membership," Tech president Paul Torgersen said.

• November 2, 1999 – BIG EAST Conference Presidents vote to advance Virginia Tech's participation as a full member to July 1, 2000.

• June 18, 2003 – In a surprise move, presidents of Atlantic Coast Conference schools privately drop a plan to invite Miami, Boston College and Syracuse and instead, vote on inviting Virginia Tech and Miami. This comes after five weeks of negotiations with the other three schools for ACC invitations.

• June 19, 2003 – Responding to speculation that Virginia Tech has been invited to join the ACC, the university issues a release stating that no offer has been extended officially or unofficially.

• June 24, 2003 – Presidents of Atlantic Coast Conference schools hold a teleconference and vote to begin the official process of offering invitations to Virginia Tech and Miami.

• June 25, 2003 – Atlantic Coast Conference officials make an official site visit to Virginia Tech, with the Hokies passing with flying colors. This is the final step before an official invitation can be extended.

• July 1, 2004 – The Hokies officially join the

ACC on July 1, 2004, and begin play in the 2004-05 academic year in all sports.

• June 27, 2003 – Virginia Tech President Charles Steger announces that the Hokies have officially accepted the ACC's invitation to join the conference.

"Today we have received the formal offer of membership, which we will accept," Steger said. "We know that this affiliation will be good for our students, athletes, fans and communities for many years to come." • July 1, 2003 – Virginia Tech and Miami are officially introduced as the 10th and 11th members of the Atlantic Coast Conference at a press conference in Greensboro, N.C.

"I'm excited for our fans and our constituency," athletic director Jim Weaver said. "This membership is something that the fan base and alumni and friends of Virginia Tech have wanted for a long time. It's home for us. We've had prior

2003-04 SEASON IN REVIEW

The Virginia Tech Hokies entered their final season as members of the BIG EAST Conference with a lot of questions and were looking for answers. After completing the season 15-14 and 7-9 and in eighth place in league play, the Hokies seemed to have found a lot of the answers.

Driven by a new coaching staff and the play of senior Bryant Matthews, the young squad finished strong and not only made its first appearance in the BIG EAST Tournament, but entered as the eighth seed and won its first game. The season that started with lots of injuries and lots of inexperienced players turned out to be perhaps the program's most fulfilling season in recent years.

The season will, perhaps, best be remembered for two things; the beginning of the Seth Greenberg era at Tech and the emergence of Matthews as one of the school's best and most complete basketball players of all time. The work ethic and attention to detail, both on and off the court, that Greenberg and his staff brought to Tech was evident in every aspect of the program. And Matthews, well, he had one of the best single seasons in Tech history.

The senior from Columbia, S.C., making the move to power forward, embraced the idea of team leadership. He worked harder than anyone else and instilled in his younger teammates that same ethic. With a preseason foot injury sidelining fellow senior Carlos Dixon for the season and the lack of any juniors, Matthews was forced to shoulder all the leadership duties, at least until the beginning of the conference season.

The New Year brought the beginning of the Hokies' final run through the BIG EAST and the arrival of another leader. Bryan Randall, the quarterback on Tech's football team, joined the program a few days after the end of the football bowl season. By the time the basketball season ended, the indelible stamp of Randall's poise and leadership was set on this team.

Tech opened the regular season injured, but able. Besides Dixon, Tech opened the season without freshman Coleman Collins and sophomore Shawn Harris, but won its first two games. A loss at Virginia, a heartbreaking overtime loss to Old Dominion and a loss at Ohio State were the only blemishes on the record heading into the holidays. The return of Collins and Harris helped, both in games and in practices. A 26-point win over William & Mary in late December not only avenged a loss from the previous season, but put the Hokies at 7-3 entering the holiday break.

Bryant Matthews became Virginia Tech's only first team All-BIG EAST selection during his senior season.

A trip to Norfolk to face East Carolina on Dec. 27 not only gave Tech a loss in its final nonconference game, but cost the Hokies the services of starting freshman guard Jamon Gordon, a player quickly becoming a solid scorer and stalwart on defense. A knee injury would force surgery that would cost the rookie the first half of the conference season.

Tech opened its final season in the BIG EAST at defending champion Pittsburgh. Without Gordon, the inexperienced team fell to the Panthers, but had a week off before the next game, a trip to West Virginia. Tech used the week well and notched its first win of the conference season with clutch play at the end by sophomore guard Markus Sailes and Randall, who gathered a loose ball in the final seconds to secure the win.

After the WVU game, Tech went through a murderers' row, playing all seven of the top seven teams in the first half of the season. The return of Gordon and the continued strong play of fellow freshmen Collins and Zabian Dowdell gave Matthews some help, but the Hokies could not break through into the win column. A loss at defending national champion Syracuse on January 31 had the Hokies 8-10 overall and 1-6 in BIG EAST play entering February. However, a speech to the team by Randall in the locker room in the Carrier Dome may have been the jolt the team needed. And needed in a hurry.

February would open with a home game against #23 Providence. All the struggle the team had in January suddenly disappeared and the Hokies gave Greenberg his first win over a ranked opponent at Virginia Tech with a 69-57 victory against the Friars.

The Hokies would not lose again in Cassell Coliseum that season. Tech followed the PC win with a win over Georgetown. After three road losses and another home win, Tech returned to the building that was quickly becoming one of the great home-court advantages in the league. Tech defeated West Virginia, giving the Hokies its first ever season sweep in BIG EAST play, and in the final home game of the season, the Hokies pushed the home winning streak to five with a 71-70 win over Rutgers. The win, coming on a tip in at the buzzer by Collins, clinched the Hokies berth in the BIG EAST Tournament the following week at Madison Square Garden.

Tech had some unfinished business to attend to before heading to the Big Apple and defeated Georgetown in the MCI Center to close out the regular season. The win gave the Hokies a 14-13 overall record, 7-9 in BIG EAST play. Most importantly, it gave the Hokies an eighth-place finish in the BIG EAST, a far cry from the 14th-place finish predicted by the coaches in the preseason.

The Hokies made a strong statement in the first round of the BIG EAST Tournament, as they knocked off Rutgers for the second time in a week, and assured themselves of a winning record for the season, the first since 1999-2000. A quarterfinal loss to nationally ranked Pittsburgh could do nothing to dampen the excitement of the season and how it finished.

Matthews earned first-team all-conference honors and honorable mention All-America. He Shawn Harris scored 10 points off the bench in the home win over West Virginia.

Jamon Gordon led the BIG EAST Conference in steals as a freshman.

Coleman Collins scored a career-high 21 points in the win over #23 Providence.

Zabian Dowdell was second on the team in scoring and assists as a freshman.

Allen Calloway was second on the team in blocked shots last season.

led the BIG EAST in scoring, was second in steals, and third in rebounding. He had one of the most complete seasons ever in the league and at Tech. He finished his Hokie career ninth in career scoring and his 641 points for the season is the most by a Hokie since 1990. Most importantly, Matthews led a young team to heights no one thought possible.

Matthews was not the only Hokie shining in the 2003-04 season. Dowdell was second on the team in scoring and assists and gave the team its first true point guard in years. Gordon led the BIG EAST in steals and the Hokies in assists, despite missing significant time with a knee injury. He became one of the league's top freshmen and combined with Dowdell to form one of the best freshman backcourts in the nation. Collins fought off the early season injury and showed flashes of a talented future in Blacksburg.

Markus Sailes was perhaps the biggest surprise on the biggest surprise team in the league. He played smart, controlled basketball and had one of the best assist/turnover ratios in the league. Shawn Harris also overcame an early season injury and gave the Hokies a needed lift in several games. Allen Calloway and Philip McCandies played solid minutes in the post and Calloway became more comfortable in his role and played well down the stretch.

Virginia Tech ended its four-year run in the BIG EAST playing well and turning Cassell Coliseum into one of the toughest places to play in the country. As the Hokies enter the Atlantic Coast Conference, Tech is primed to make even more improvements.

VIRGINIA TECH POSTSEASON HISTORY

Two NIT Championships Highlight Tech's Exciting Postseason Play

Guided by Coach Bill Foster, Virginia Tech basketball hit the jackpot in 1995 and 1996 with a championship run in the National Invitation Tournament and an appearance in the NCAA.

The players and coaches of the 1994-95 team cemented their names in Hokie basketball lore in one of the most dramatic NITs of all time.

Tech won the title, defeating Marquette in overtime, 65-64, on two free throws by Shawn Smith with 0.7 seconds left. Other starters on that great Tech team were Ace Custis, Travis Jackson, Damon Watlington and Shawn Good, and key reserves were David Jackson and Myron Guillory.

Marquette had come from four points behind to take the lead at 64-63 on Anthony Pieper's driving layup with 18.3 seconds left.

That set up the final play for Tech. Smith spun to the basket and took an eight-footer. Golden Eagle Faisal Abraham fouled him on the left elbow and body.

Smith calmy sank the first free throw to tie it. After Marquette called a timeout, Smith made the second.

Fans at Madison Square Garden rushed on the court. Smith ran into the stands to give his father a bear hug. Blacksburg went wild as students and townspeople stormed the downtown area to hail their heroes.

Tech had reached the championship game by defeating Clemson, 62-54; Providence, 91-78; New Mexico State, 64-61; and Canisius, 71-59.

Ace Custis addresses the media following the Hokies' win over Wisconsin-Green Bay in the 1996 NCAA Tournament.

Allan Bristow and the Hokies are swamped by fans upon their return to Blacksburg after winning the NIT in Madison Square Garden in 1973.

That Tech team finished with 25 victories, the most in school history.

The next season, Tech qualified for the NCAA Tournament. Drawing a disappointing ninth seed, Tech was placed in the same bracket with power-packed Kentucky.

The Hokies beat Wisconsin-Green Bay in the first round at Dallas, Texas, 61-48, as Good led the way with 25 points. The Hokies, however, lost in the second round to eventual national champion Kentucky, 84-60.

That Tech team finished with a 23-6 record, one of the best marks in school history.

In all, Tech has made 14 postseason appearances, compiling an overall record of 22-12.

Tech's NIT title in 1995 was the second for the Hokies. Tech also won the crown at Madison Square Garden in 1973 in strikingly similar fashion.

Tech guard Bobby Stevens hit a jumper at the buzzer in overtime to propel the Hokies to a 92-91 victory over the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame and the NIT title. The victory was a highlight of the championship series in which Tech won four games by a total of five points, including a first-round victory over nationally ranked New Mexico, 65-63, on national television.

Tech's first postseason appearance came in 1966, when the Hokies lost to Temple, 88-73, in the NIT's opening round.

A year later, Tech made its first NCAA Tournament appearance, advancing to the finals of the Mideast Regional with wins against Toledo and Indiana. The Hokies fell just short of the Final Four when they dropped a heart-breaking 71-66 overtime decision to Dayton.

In the 1980 Mideast Regional, Tech made headlines with its amazing first-round comeback victory against homestanding Western Kentucky. The Hokies trailed 48-30 at the half, but rallied to take an 89-85 overtime win. In the second round against Indiana and Isiah Thomas, Tech came close to an upset. The Hokies trailed by only three points with less than five minutes to go, but fell, 68-59.

The Hokies made it back to the NIT in 1982. Tech advanced into the quarterfinals with impressive wins against Fordham and Mississippi before finally losing to Georgia and high-flying All-American Dominique Wilkins.

In 1983, Tech opened NIT play at home against William & Mary, winning 85-79, then lost on the road at South Carolina, 75-68.

Tech also had the good fortune of opening the 1984 NIT at Cassell Coliseum against Georgia Tech of the Atlantic Coast Conference. The Hokies prevailed, 77-74, behind 19-point performances from Dell Curry and Perry Young. A last-second tip-in by point guard Al Young sparked the Hokies to a 68-66 win against South Alabama at Greensboro, N.C.

Bobby Stevens is hoisted to the shoulders of Tech fans after hitting the shot that beat Notre Dame in the 1973 NIT final.

Shawn Smith calmly sank two free throws to tie and then win the NIT title game at Madison Square Garden in 1995.

The Hokies then returned home where they rode a 27-point outing by Curry to a victory against Tennessee, 72-68.

In the semifinals at Madison Square Garden, it took a last-minute comeback by eventual champion Michigan to beat Tech, 78-75. The Hokies bounced back two days later to nail down third place with a 71-70 victory over Southwestern Louisiana.

In 1985, the Hokies took a 20-8 regular season record and a second-place Metro Conference finish into the NCAA Tournament. Tech bowed out in the first round, losing 60-57 to Temple. In 1986, the Hokies were eliminated in the first round of the Metro Tournament. Despite the defeat, they received a bid to the NCAA Tournament behind the strength of their 22-8 record. Tech was defeated in the first round by Villanova, 71-62.

VIRGINIA TECH SPORTS HALL OF FAME

The Virginia Tech Sports Hall of Fame was organized in 1982 to honor persons who have made great contributions to athletics at the university. Since its inception. a total of 116 people have been enshrined. including 19 players who were picked primarily for their contributions in basketball.

A brilliant basketball center from 1958 through 1961, Smith was one of the nation's leading rebounders three years in a row. He still holds all of Tech's major rebounding records and is regarded by many as the greatest basketball player in school history. Smith is a charter member who was inducted in 1982.

ALLAN BRISTOW A scrappy forward who paced the Hokies to the National Invitation Tournament championship in 1973. Bristow scored in double figures during every game of his Tech career and still holds the Hokies' single-game scoring mark of 52 points. After 10 years as a player in the NBA, Bristow went into coaching, including a stint as the head coach of the NBA Charlotte Hornets. He is currently the general manager of the New Orleans Hornets. Bristow was inducted in 1984.

JOHN WETZEL A swingman who was always at his best in the clutch, Wetzel led Tech to its first-ever national postseason tournament in 1966. He enjoyed a 10-year NBA playing career and was in the pro coaching ranks since 1979 until retiring this summer from the Sacramento Kings. Wetzel was inducted in 1985.

HARRY BUSHKAR A fine scorer and playmaker, Bushkar capped his career by being named All-Southern Conference in 1945-46. He was tabbed Virginia's Player of the Year that season and made the SC All-Tournament Team. Bushkar was captain of the 1944, '45 and '46 Tech teams. He was inducted in 1986.

GEORGE PARRISH One of Tech's first big-name stars, Parrish earned All-South honors in both basketball and football during a career that extended from 1916 to 1920. Parrish was regarded by many as the best center in southern basketball in 1919 when he scored 320 of the Hokies' 766 points. He was inducted in 1986.

One of the greatest shooters in school history, Pardue played on Tech teams in the early 1960s. He finished with a career scoring average of 20

1960s. He finished with a career scoring average of 20 points and was named to the All-Southern Conference team three years in a row and twice was named to the Southern's all-tournament team. He was inducted in 1992.

A 6-3 swingman who led Tech to glory in the early 1960s, Keller finished his Tech career with an overall scoring average of 18.2 per game. He career with an overall scoring average of 18.2 per game. He averaged 15.0 on a 1959-60 team that went 20-6, posted a 17.6 scoring mark in 1960-61 when the Hokies were 15-7 and averaged 21.7 in 1961-62 when Tech finished 19-6. Keller died in 1977. He was inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1993.

BILL MATTHEWS Matthews had a tremendous impact on Tech athletics in a 35-year career as a basketball player, a coach of three sports and an administrator. A bulky center, he ranks second only to Chris Smith in all-time rebounding for the Hokies. Matthews had a career average of 13.8 rebounds per game and in 1954-55 had a sensational seasonal average of 18.8. He was the Virginia Player of the Year in 1955-56. Matthews was inducted in 1993.

DALE SOLOMON

A dynamic center, Solomon burst on the Virginia Tech basketball scene in a big way during his freshman year in 1978-79. He sparked Tech to its only Metro Conference Tournament championship and was named the tourney's MVP. He went on to become the first player to make All-Metro four years in a row. In 1990, he was chosen on the Metro's decade team of the 1980s. Solomon tallied a career total of 2.136 points and ranks third behind Bimbo Coles and Dell Curry on the Hokies' all-time scoring list. He was inducted in 1994.

EARL (BUS) HALL The Southern Conference's leading scorer in 1932, Hall was a unanimous choice for the all-conference team that year. Nicknamed "The Princeton Phantom," he was a complete player who excelled as a floor leader, dribbler and passer, as well as a scorer. Hall was inducted in 1992.

GLEN COMBS Still rated one of the best long-range shooters in school history, Combs helped the 1967 Tech team to the finals of the NCAA Mideast Regional, where an overtime loss to Dayton cost the Hokies a spot in the Final Four. Combs, who averaged 17.9 points over his three varsity seasons at Tech, went on to enjoy a seven-year career in the ABA. He was inducted in 1987.

LEE MELEAK Although he starred in both basketball and baseball, Melear may be best remembered for his 24-point performance against Kentucky in 1962 when the Hokies handed legendary Adolph Rupp the only seasonopening home loss of his career at UK. Melear, who averaged in double-figure scoring all three of his varsity seasons, was inducted in 1989.

BOB AYERSMAN A hot-shooting forward from 1957-61, Ayersman made the All-Southern Conference team two years in a row. He still ranks sixth in career scoring at Tech and his 26.5 scoring average in 1958-59 still stands as the second-best in school history. Ayersman was inducted in 1990.

LEWIS MILLS A point guard deluxe, Mills was the captain of the Hokies in 1959-60 and helped that team post the school's first 20win basketball season. He entered the coaching field after graduating from Tech and served as the head basketball coach at the University of Richmond from 1963 until 1973. Mills, who also spent 12 years in athletic administration at VCU, was inducted in 1991.

DELL CURRY This silky-smooth outside shooter scored a Tech record 1,021 field goals and tallied a total of 2,389 points. He ranks second on the Hokies' all-time scoring list behind Bimbo Coles and holds the school career record for steals with 295. Curry, who helped the Hokies to four postseason tournaments, posted 115 double-figure scoring games on the way to a career scoring average of 18.9. He was a first-round draft pick of the NBA's Utah Jazz in 1986 and is now retired from playing after a long and successful NBA career. He is currently an executive with the expansion Charlotte Bobcats of the NBA and was inducted into the Virginia State Sports Hall of Fame in 2004. Curry was inducted in 1996.

A mixture of good ball-handling skills, leaping ability and a keen eye for long range jumpers helped make King one of the best guards to play for the Hokies. He was the captain and leading scorer for Tech's cage teams in 1969-70 and 1970-71. He averaged 19.3 points per game as a junior and carried a 21.3-point scoring average as a senior. During his last two years, he reached double-figure scoring in 45 of 47 games, including the last 23 in a row. King finished his Tech career with 1,248 points and a 17.1 scoring average. He went on to play in the American Basketball Association and French Professional League. King was inducted in 1998.

Ted Ware, whose rebounding and defense were vital ingredients for the Hokies during his three varsity seasons in the 1960s, had the distinction of playing an important role on Tech's first NIT team in 1966 and also on the Hokies' first NCAA Tournament squad in 1967. The 6-5 forward was Tech's second-leading scorer as a sophomore in 1965-66 with a 14.6 average. During the 1966-67 season, he shot 55.6 percent from the field for the season, which was a school record at the time. As a senior in 1967-68. Ware posted a team-high 9.2 rebounding average. Ware's overall 52.4 field-goal percentage was a Tech career record at the time. In 1968, he was selected to the 10-man Academic All-America Basketball Team chosen by the nation's sports information directors. Ware was inducted in 1999.

BIMBO COLES Vernell "Bimbo" Coles played a leading role at point guard for the 1988 U.S. Olympic team, which won a bronze medal in Seoul, Korea. He capped his collegiate career as the leading scorer in both Virginia Tech and Metro Conference basketball history. Coles' jersey, No. 12, was officially retired just prior to his final home game against Memphis State on March 3, 1990. He was inducted in 2000.

WAYNE ROBINSON Wayne Robinson was a central figure in Tech's early success in the Metro Conference. He was Tech's leading rebounder in each of his three years as a starter and is ranked fourth among Tech's career rebound leaders and is 10th in career scoring at Tech. Robinson was a first round selection of the Los Angeles Lakers in the 1980 NBA Draft and played for both the Lakers and the Detroit Pistons before playing seven seasons professionally in Europe. He was inducted in 2003.

PAUL DEAR, LEO BURKE AND MEL HENRY

Although these three players were chosen for the Hall of Fame primarily for their excellence in other sports, they also made outstanding contributions in basketball.

DELL CURRY 2004 VIRGINIA SPORTS HALL OF FAME INDUCTEE

The list of accolades continues to grow for Hokie all-time great Dell Curry. A 1996 inductee into the Virginia Tech Hall of Fame, Curry is a 2004 inductee into the Virginia Sports Hall of Fame. Tech's second-leading all-time scorer and former longtime NBA standout becomes just the fourth Hokie basketball great to be enshrined. Curry enters in a class that includes former Richmond AD Chuck Boone, former NFL great William Fuller and two-time U.S. Open winner Curtis Strange.

BIMBO COLES TECH ALL-TIME GREAT

After dazzling Virginia Tech fans for four years, guard Bimbo Coles became the second Tech men's basketball player to have his jersey retired when the university honored him in a ceremony prior to his last home game on March 3, 1990. Coles finished his collegiate career as the leading all-time scorer in school and Metro Conference history and also set an all-time scoring mark for Division I players in the state of Virginia. He scored a total of 2,484 points during his four seasons and became the first player in Metro Conference history to lead the league in scoring three consecutive years. Coles burst on the national scene when he made the United States Olympic team in 1988. He played a leading role at point guard for that team which won the bronze medal in Seoul, Korea. Coles was a second-round pick of the Sacramento Kings in the 1990 NBA draft. Coles has played with a number of NBA teams. He rejoined the Miami Heat for the 2003-04 NBA season and is currently a free agent exploring his NBA options.

ACE CUSTIS TECH ALL-TIME GREAT

Ace Custis, one of the most popular athletes in Virginia Tech history, became the third men's basketball player to have his jersey retired when his career ended in 1997. Custis became the third player in Tech basketball to surpass the 1,000mark in both points and rebounds. He finished with 1,706 points and 1,777 rebounds, joining Hall of Famers Chris Smith and Bill Matthews in that category. Custis made the all-conference team in two different leagues during his time at Tech. He was All-Metro Conference as a sophomore and was selected to the All-Atlantic 10 team his junior and senior seasons. During his senior year, he was a finalist in voting for the Boost/Naismith Award which goes to the National Player of the Year. Custis has played on NBA Summer League teams in the past and now plays professionally in Japan.

DELL CURRY TECH ALL-TIME GREAT

All-America guard Dell Curry, who helped Virginia Tech to four postseason tournaments, became the first Hokie basketball player ever to have his jersey retired when the university honored him in a ceremony before his last home game on March 1, 1986. Curry was a three-time All-Metro Conference choice for the Hokies and was named the Metro's Player of the Year in 1986 after leading the league with a 24.1 scoring average. He finished his Tech career with 2,389 points, which was a school record at the time. Curry earned first-team All-America honors from The Basketball News, second-team recognition from the Associated Press and the Basketball Writers of America, and third-team honors from United Press International and the Helms Foundation. During the summers of 1984 and 1985, the 6-5 sharpshooter played on U.S. All-Star teams that competed abroad in Jones

Cup play. Following his senior season, Curry was a firstround draft pick of the NBA's Utah Jazz. Curry retired from the NBA following the 2002-03 season, after a long career in which he was one of the top shooters in the league. Last year, he was featured in USA Today due to his involvement in numerous community and charity causes. He is currently the Director of Basketball Relations for the NBA's expansion Charlotte Bobcats.

ALLAN BRISTOW TECH ALL-TIME GREAT

Allan Bristow, a scrappy forward who paced the Hokies to the National Invitation Tournament championship in 1973, became the fourth Virginia Tech basketball player to have his jersey retired. Bristow scored in double figures during every game of his Tech career and still holds the Hokies' singlegame scoring mark of 52 points. He finished as Tech's all-time scoring leader in 1973 with 1,804 points and still stands fifth on the list. He holds Tech records for career scoring average, most points in a game, consecutive double-figure scoring games and most field goals in a game. After 10 years as a player in the NBA, Bristow went into coaching, including a stint as the head coach of the NBA Charlotte Hornets. His jersey was retired on Oct. 17, 1998, at the Temple homecoming football game, commemorating the 25th anniversary of the 1973 NIT team. After returning to the Hornets' organization as the team's assistant general manager last season, Bristow was promoted to general manager this past summer.

DON DEVDE TECH COACHING GREATS

To many Hokie fans, it will remain the most important event in Virginia Tech basketball history. In 1973, the Hokies shocked the basketball world by defeating New Mexico, Fairfield, Alabama and Notre Dame to win the NIT. The win over the Irish in the finals was capped by a buzzer-beating jumper by Bobby Stevens to win the game in overtime, 92-91.

The coach of the Hokies was Don DeVoe, in just his second season in Blacksburg. DeVoe took a group of experienced players in his first season, built upon that foundation by teaching strong fundamentals and put the Hokies on the basketball map.

"I was fortunate at the age of 29 to be named the head coach at Virginia Tech," DeVoe said. "I was lucky to inherit five outstanding seniors. I give credit to those five seniors in being able to grasp what we were teaching and believing in what we were teaching. That first team laid the foundation for what we were to accomplish in the future."

DeVoe was fortunate to work with an outstanding staff, including future head coaches Sonny Smith (VCU, Auburn) and Jim Hallihan (East Ten-

A graduate assistant on those teams was Kevin O'Connor, currently the senior vice president of basketball operations of the NBA's Utah Jazz and father of former Tech women's assistant basketball coach and player Katie O'Connor. That group was able to recruit an outstanding group of players that brought a lot of excitement to Blacksburg.

"My first staff, Sonny Smith and Jim Hallihan, were great at finding the type of kids we wanted in our program. They helped us establish the success that we had and we were fortunate to have them here," DeVoe said.

DeVoe coached the Hokies for five seasons, compiling an 88-45 overall record. He is the fifth-winningest coach in Tech history and is remembered for being the coach that got the Hokies started on the most prolonged and successful streak in the school's basketball history.

"When we left, we were able to leave behind an outstanding group of players and I know that Charlie Moir took those outstanding players and was able to continue the success at Virginia Tech."

DeVoe retired following the 2003-04 season as the head coach at Navy.

"It was really exciting to see what was happening at Virginia Tech. It was exciting to see the people in the state get excited about Virginia Tech basketball and football. We enjoyed tremendous support from the students and the community. The NIT season, just about every game was a full house. It was an exciting time in Virginia Tech athletics."

- Don DeVoe

The Hokies were 52-6 under Don DeVoe in Cassell Coliseum.

Don DeVoe coached Hokie great Allan Bristow at Virginia Tech.

CHARLES MOIR COACHING GREATS TECH

Perhaps no era in Virginia Tech basketball was more successful and more exciting than the 11 years that Charlie Moir led the Hokies. An assistant coach under Bill Matthews and Howie Shannon in the 1960s, Moir is Tech's all-time winningest coach. His teams won big games against the top teams in the nation. Cassell Coliseum was a feared place to play and Tech was one of the top teams in the nation.

During Moir's time in Blacksburg, Tech won more than 64 percent of its games. Moir never had a losing record and failed to win at least 20 games just three times, and two of those three seasons saw Tech win 19 games. The Hokies made seven post-season appearances, including four of the school's seven NCAA trips. The Hokies also won the 1979 Metro Conference Tournament under Moir.

Great players dotted the rosters during Moir's term. The top four scorers in school history all played for Moir. Bimbo Coles, the only Olympian in Tech history was recruited by an assistant to Howard Shannon at Virginia Tech. Moir. Moir coached the highest-scoring teams in Virginia Tech history.

"The seats go way up there, and it feels like the fans are so close to the court. I know other coaches hate to play there. It felt like a great place, with tremendous fan support, and most nights it was rocking."

Tech's biggest wins in Cassell Coliseum came under Moir. On Monday, Jan. 10, 1983, Moir and the Hokies spoiled the day for Memphis State, as the Hokies knocked off the #1-ranked Tigers, 69-56, in a sold-out Cassell Coliseum. MSU had earlier in the day ascended to the top spot in the national polls. Tech had other memorable wins under Moir, including a 76-72 victory over second-ranked and unbeaten Memphis State in 1986.

The names that played for Moir are among the best-ever for Tech. Bimbo Coles, Dell Curry, Dale Solomon, Al Young, Perry Young, Bobby Beecher, and 2003 Virginia Tech Hall of Fame inductee Wayne Robinson were all vital parts of the great teams under Charlie Moir.

"We had good success recruiting players including, Dell Curry and Bimbo Coles, who went on to successful careers in the NBA. Joining the Metro Conference, which had some ranked teams, helped with the recruiting."

Charles Moir won almost 85 percent of his games in Cassell Coliseum.

Moir receives a bowling pin and a cake from son, Page, upon his 300th career coaching victory.

BILL FOSTER TECH COACHING GREATS

Foster and his wife, Linda, arrive on the court to a thunderous ovation for his final home game.

Foster celebrates with his players after notching his 500th career coaching victory.

The basketball locker room and lounge at Virginia Tech is named in honor of Bill Foster.

Bill Foster remains a fan favorite of the Hokies.

"I was very fortunate that I had a lot of guys who weren't highly recruited, but became overachievers. A lot of those guys weren't interested in individual statistics, but the team stats. I just had a special group of overachievers."

— Bill Foster

Bill Foster came to Blacksburg as a proven successful basketball coach. Everywhere he had coached, including Miami, Clemson and UNC Charlotte, Foster had won. But perhaps more importantly, Foster had won with grace and integrity. During his time in Blacksburg, he proved that class shines through.

Foster enjoyed many successes and milestones during his time at Virginia Tech. On Dec. 31, 1995 in New Orleans, the Hokies defeated Wright State, to give Foster his 500th coaching victory. During that season, Tech climbed to eighth in the polls and lost in the second round of the NCAA Tournament to eventual champion Kentucky. Tech finished the season ranked 22nd nationally.

The previous season had seen perhaps Foster's greatest accomplishment at Tech, as he led the Hokies to the 1995 NIT Championship. Tech defeated Clemson, Providence, New Mexico State, Canisius and Marquette to capture the school's second NIT title. During his six seasons at Virginia Tech, Foster amassed a 101-78 record with the Hokies and stands as the fourth-winningest coach in school history.

"The people here were special to work with, including Coach Beamer and President (Paul) Torgersen. The improvement we had over four or five years was amazing to see. NIT was a great experience, as well as getting an NCAA bid the next year," Foster said.

Foster has a connection to the current era of Virginia Tech basketball. Hokie head coach Seth Greenberg was a member of Foster's first staff at Miami. Greenberg gives much credit to his former boss and will rely on Foster's knowledge and experience in helping mold his program in Blacksburg.

"Seth Greenberg is a bright young man who has built and developed outstanding programs at both Long Beach State and South Florida. He is a hard > worker who has been a basketball person since he was old enough to dribble a ball. I don't know anything but positives about Seth Greenberg," Foster said.

REMEMBERING THE 1966-67 HOHIES

"It was a wonderful year. All of the starters could get out and run the floor and everyone complemented each other on the court. Some of the players were interchangeable and we were a good overall athletic team." — Former Virginia Tech and ABA standout, Glen Combs

A season of firsts. A record-setting year. A year to remember and be talked about throughout Virginia Tech history. The 1966-67 basketball team featured a star-studded lineup that included two players who went on to a professional career and a third who was drafted in the ABA. The Hokies were virtually unstoppable, despite losing the leading scorer and rebounder from the year before.

After reaching the postseason in the 1965-66 season, fans thought the Hokies would be good, but not nearly as good as they turned out to be. Opening up the season against fourth-ranked Duke, Tech blew out its opponent on a neutral court in Charlotte, N.C. Hokie fans were so stirred up after knocking off the Blue Devils, a school-record 11,500 fans filed into Cassell Coliseum to watch Tech down Purdue the very next day. To this day, it is the largest watched home game in Virginia Tech history. At the time, it was also the largest crowd to ever see a game in the state of Virginia. The momentum carried them to seven more wins over the next nine games before dropping a narrow loss to Clemson. After losing to the Tigers, the Hokies would win the next seven games heading down the stretch, thanks mainly to the sharp-shooting of Glen Combs, who averaged 21.3 points per game as a junior.

Tech averaged 78.8 points per contest during the memorable season. The potent offense contributed to its run in the NCAA Tournament, where they promptly knocked off Toledo in Memorial Coliseum in Lexington, Ky., after losing to the Rockets at the end of the regular season. The Hokies reached the Elite Eight before succumbing to Dayton in overtime.

Despite being on the verge of the Final Four and coming up just short, fans remember the team as a run and gun affair in the pre-shot clock era. They also remember players like Ron "Spider" Perry, Chris Ellis, Ted Ware and Ken Talley.

Although the squad has been apart for nearly 40 years, they will always be etched in the history books as one of the best ever. There is simply no other way to describe the 1966-67 Virginia Tech men's basketball team.

WHERE ARE THEY NOW?

These three pages contain a brief list of former Hokie players and what they are doing now, along with vignettes of former players. Head coach Seth Greenberg has made a point to re-connect with former Virginia Tech players. As the years go on, it is our hope that former Hokie athletes will drop us a note and keep us updated on their lives.

Former student-athletes interested in Virginia Tech Athletics are asked to contact Russ Whitenack, Director of the Monogram Club, at (540) 231-9156 or rwhitena@vt.edu.

BIMBO COLES

Hard work got Bimbo Coles to where he is today. During his four years at Virginia Tech, Coles worked hard both on and off the court. He used the total collegiate experience to improve as a person and as a player and that hard work has served him well since his graduation in 1990.

"I worked hard in my four years at Virginia Tech and took that to the NBA," Coles said. "I got better and better every year. I became a better person and matured quite a bit."

Still the only Virginia Tech U.S. Olympian, Coles left Blacksburg with a wealth of honors for his days on the court. He is the all-time leader in points scored, assists and free throws made at Virginia Tech and ranks second in three more categories. He was a second-round pick of the Sacramento Kings of the NBA and has enjoyed a long career in the league, having recently signed to return to the Miami Heat.

"Virginia Tech was a terrific situation for me," Coles said. "I remember my visit to the campus. I loved the campus. We defeated No. 1 ranked

Vernell "Bimbo" Coles

Quinton Nottingham, Ph.D.

Memphis State during my visit and I remember the fans and the crowd in Cassell Coliseum being so loud. Coming to Tech was a no-brainer."

His Tech experience has progressed off the court as well. He is in the movie theatre business with childhood friend and former Tech football player Brian McCall. Before the NBA season begins, you can often find Coles in his suite at Lane Stadium, supporting the Hokies. Coles has indeed taken hard work to great successes.

QUINTON NOTTINGHAM

Quinton Nottingham played guard for Virginia Tech from 1986-89. As a player, he learned important time management skills. "After joining the basketball team I learned the best time for me to work and the best time for me to play," he says. "I think for college kids today, learning the time at which you get your best work done is very important."

He describes playing at Cassell as "simply unbelievable" and feels like it was just an incredible place to play. "When I played in the Cassell, with the crowd constantly roaring, it always seemed as if I was jumping a little higher, moving a little faster ... walking on clouds."

Nottingham graduated from Virginia Tech with bachelor's and master's degrees, and earned a Ph.D., in statistics. He has worked for the business information technology department since 1995 and was promoted to assistant professor with tenure in 2001, and is now an associate professor. He teaches mostly Quantitative Methods I & II and his research is in nonparametric regression, data visualization and neural networks. He has had several academic publications in his field.

Notthingham is married to the former Jacqueline James, who recently has been promoted to Director of Annual Giving and Special Gifts in University Development. They have two children, Sir, 7, and Jacob, 6. He served three years as a color analyst on radio for the Hokies (during the time that his cousin, Ace Custis, played at Tech) and maintains a close relationship with the coaching staff. He also attends most of the home games. "Having been a student-athlete at Tech was a wonderful experience and it continues to be a rewarding opportunity for me."

John Dixon scores two points in a big game against Memphis State.

WHERE ARE THEY NOW?

GLEN COMBS

Consistency. It might be the word that best describes how people remember Glen Combs, a guard on the 1966-67 Virginia Tech's basketball team, which many people say is the best ever. The reason is simple. On the court and in life, Combs learned how to keep an even keel on things. "In sports, it's easy to get high when you win and low when you lose," he said. "You have to be able to bounce back after you have a bad game and think about the next opportunity that appears."

After reaching the Elite Eight, the Hokies fell to Dayton, but Combs' next opportunity was right around the corner. He played in the ABA for seven years and was a three-time all-star. "I felt comfortable that I could play with everyone else in the league."

Combs left Virginia Tech fifth on the school's alltime scoring list and is currently 15th on the list.

When his playing days in Blacksburg were complete, Combs received a degree in business because, "... I knew I wanted to do something else as opposed to coaching." With the degree, he owned and operated a food brokerage company in Roanoke — the M&M food brokerage company — for 25 years. Three years ago he sold it and took an early retirement.

Combs' wife, Marsha, is also a graduate of Virginia Tech. The couple has two sons. The eldest, Brian, is a banker in Richmond, while the younger child, Chris, was in Blacksburg this fall competing against the Hokies. Chris is on the coaching staff of Duke's football team.

During the basketball season, fans will be able to see Combs in Cassell Coliseum, where he has consistently been a season ticket holder. No matter what he does, one thing stays the same about him. Combs is always consistent.

HOHIES IN THE NBA - OFF THE COURT

The list of former Hokies drafted by the NBA tells only part of the story. In recent years, former Virginia Tech players have been involved in the National Basketball Association in a wide variety of non-playing roles.

One of the most successful Hokies has been Allan Bristow. Following a long playing career in both the NBA and ABA, Bristow worked his way through the ranks, first as an assistant coach and then serving as the head coach of the Hornets. Last season, Bristow rejoined the franchise as assistant general manager and this summer was elevated to the position of general manager.

Also on the list is Dell Curry, who last year joined the expansion Charlotte Bobcats as Director of Basketball Relations, while still maintaining his busy schedule with his Dell Curry Foundation. Bimbo Coles is currently exploring a number of options in the NBA, not just as a player, but possibly in coaching or a front office situation. John Wetzel retired this summer after a long NBA career as a player, coach and front office member.

Dell Curry, seen here guarding fellow Hokie Bimbo Coles, is the director of basketball relations for the expansion Charlotte Bobcats of the NBA.

CASSELL COLISEUM — HOME OF THE HOHIES

Entering its 44th season, Cassell Coliseum provides Virginia Tech basketball with one of the great home courts in the nation. Winning has been the norm in the facility since its opening in 1961.

Cassell enjoyed a renaissance of sorts during the 2003-04 season. The Hokies finished the season 11-4 in the coliseum, including a five-game conference winning streak to end the season. Tech's 11 home wins last season was the most since 1994-95 and is tied for the ninth-most home victories for a Virginia Tech team in Cassell Coliseum history.

Since opening, the coliseum has attracted more than 3.5 million fans for men's basketball. Tech finished sixth nationally in Division I in increased attendance during the season, drawing 95,136 for the season, about one-third more than the season before.

Cassell Coliseum is constantly undergoing improvements. Four years ago, new state-of-theart video screens were added and two years ago, each seat in the arena was refinished to a natural wood look. Prior to the 2002-03 season, the athletics department completed step one of a threestep process to renovate and improve the ambulatory of the coliseum. New video screens were added in the concourse this season, as well as a new design to the court, reflecting the Hokies entrance into the ACC.

Restoration and sealing of the exterior concrete walls and buttresses of Cassell Coliseum took place in 1997. Roof repair was completed in the fall of 1996, with replacement of the roof surface and installation of structural access to the heating and lighting systems as well as installation of steel beams in the top of the arena.

The men's basketball team was given a gift from Pat and Sandy Cupp of Blacksburg, Va. The gift was used for renovation of the men's basketball locker room which is now the Bill Foster Basketball Suite, named after one of Tech's most successful men's basketball coaches.

Entering the 2004-2005 season, the Hokies have won 420 out of 543 games played in Cassell, for a winning percentage of .773.

During the 1994-95 season, Cassell was the site of high excitement as the Hokies hosted two National Invitation Tournament games, en route to the championship. The Hokies beat Clemson in a first-round game at the Coliseum, then scored an emotional 64-61 third-round win over New Mexico State, turning the arena into a madhouse.

The first basketball game was played in the Coliseum on January 3, 1962, as the Hokies routed Alabama, 91-67. The near-capacity crowd had to sit on the concrete floor to watch the initiation of the new building because the seats had not arrived.

There have been four perfect season records for the Hokies in Cassell: two 10-0 years (1961-62 and 1965-66), an 11-0 campaign (1972-73) and a 14-0 season (1975-76). The Hokies have lost only one game on their home court in 11 other years, including 13-1 records in 1977-78 and 1987-88.

State rivals have had little success playing the Hokies in Cassell, winning only 13 of 112 visits. Tech was 3-1 against Commonwealth of Virginia opponents last season.

On September 17, 1977, Virginia Tech officials and friends dedicated the Coliseum in honor of the late Stuart K. Cassell.

Adjacent to Cassell Coliseum is the Jamerson Athletic Center. Completed in 1982 and dedicated in the fall of 1983, it is named in honor of J.E. Jamerson and his son, William E. Jamerson, owners of the firm that built the building.

The complex contains administrative and coaching offices, athletic department accounting and business offices, team and coaches' meeting rooms, the Jim "Bulldog" Haren Weight Room and the Gordon D. Bowman Memorial Club Room on the top floor for Hokie Club members.

Prior to the 1988-89 season, a modern, springloaded playing floor was installed in the Coliseum. During the fall of 1989, the facility was upgraded with an improved lighting system in the arena.

Construction for the main portion of the Coliseum began in 1961. It was completed in December 1964, at a cost of $2.7 million. Built by T.C. Brittain and Company of Decatur, Ga., it houses a 10,052-seat basketball arena, locker rooms, two auxiliary gymnasiums, offices and other athletic facilities.

Although capacity crowds are a frequent occurrence in Cassell Coliseum, the largest crowd ever recorded was an overflow of 11,500 for Purdue on December 3, 1966.

THE BILL FOSTER BASHETBALL SUITE

Virginia Tech players have the use of one of the best locker room facilities in the country — The Bill Foster Basketball Suite — donated by Pat and Sandy Cupp of Blacksburg, Va., in honor of Virginia Tech coaching great Bill Foster. It includes a spacious locker room, private restroom and showers, a players' lounge with stereo and large screen television, meeting area and foyer with lockers honoring former Hokie greats Allan Bristow, Dell Curry, Bimbo Coles and Ace Custis. The suite opens into the arena floor and also has an entrance across the hall from the Hokies' practice gym.

A look at the Hokies' sports facilities

Rector Field House (left) is the site of the Hokies fullsized indoor practice field, and is also home to one of the nation's finest indoor tracks (left) in the winter. Plans are being considered for a new indoor football practice facility to be located on the other side of Cassell Coliseum.

The Virginia Tech men's and women's swimming and diving teams compete at the War Memorial Pool.

Tech's softball program has only been in existence for nine years, but — like many Tech athletic teams — it has already built a reputation for winning. New bleachers and a press box have been added to the softball facility over the last few years.

The Burrows-Burleson Tennis Center (below) boasts six indoor courts as well as six outdoor courts. The facility, which has been honored by the USTA, has been the site of both men's and women's NCAA Tournament matches in recent years. A year ago, the Hokies began play in a brand-new soccer and lacrosse stadium (left) in the middle of the athletic complex.

VIRGINIA TECH ATHLETICS — A SUCCESS STORY

The Virginia Tech athletics program is one of great accomplishment and great excitement. Hokie fans are known as some of the top fans in the country and all Virginia Tech teams benefit from their support. The Hokies had a crowd of 2,263 at the 1,000-seat Virginia Tech Soccer Stadium to see the men's soccer team defeat future ACC foe Clemson in the first round of the 2003 NCAA Soccer Tournament. Tech's Spyridon Jullien (left) finished second at the 2003 NCAA Track and Field Championships in the hammer throw. Lane Stadium (below) is always filled with loyal Hokie fans on fall afternoons, a sight that also is becoming commonplace in Cassell Coliseum when the Hokie hoops team is on the court. With Tech's move to the ACC, more fans, more excitement and better competition are evident on the Tech campus.

UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT DR. CHARLES W. STEGER

Most people in the university community are keenly aware of Virginia Tech's aspiration to become a leading national research university. Setting his sights on joining the nation's truly elite universities, President Charles W. Steger intends for Virginia Tech to be ranked among the top research universities by the end of the decade. His vision has energized the entire university community and has led to new educational and research initiatives across campus and throughout the state.

Recent state budget shortfalls and cutbacks have not diminished or dampened Steger's resolve to pursue this ambitious goal. During the last fiscal year, research expenditures continued to grow, reaching $247 million, up from $232 million the year before. In spite of these gains, Steger readily admits his vision for Virginia Tech will be challenging to reach without significantly changing the university's ability to operate in an increasingly competitive educational market and research environment. For this reason, Steger will be working with leaders at the University of Virginia and the College of William & Mary to secure passage of chartered university legislation, an innovative idea that will promote greater institutional flexibility and growth at the three universities while each retain strong connections to the Commonwealth of Virginia.

Under Steger's leadership, Virginia Tech completed a strategic plan in 2001, creating the framework for national leadership of a comprehensively engaged university. This blueprint calls for innovative plans to educate the whole student, strengthen research and scholarship, and expand outreach and service. In 2003, the university completed a campus wide restructuring of colleges and departments to coincide with the strategic plan. Strategic initiatives to improve undergraduate and graduate education also are under way.

A signature initiative of Steger's administration will likely be the Virginia Bioinformatics Institute, which dedicated its first facilities earlier this year. Led by world-class researchers, this interdisciplinary research center pushes the frontiers of knowledge by bringing together the disciplines of computer science and biological research. By harnessing and manipulating huge amounts of data, scientists now study molecular, cellular and environmental interactions that affect human health, agricultural systems and the environment. The Virginia Bioinformatics Institute already has secured more than $30 million in research contracts.

Hokie fans, however, will always remember Steger as the president who negotiated Virginia Tech's membership in the Atlantic Coast Conference, arguably the most prestigious athletics conference in the nation. In its inaugural conference season, Virginia Tech will forge new rivalries that promise to excite fans for years to come.

Steger also led the effort to establish the Virginia Tech-Wake Forest School of Biomedical Engineering. The Via College of Osteopathic Medicine began operation last year and has grown much faster than expected in its first year. The nation's newest medical school is an affiliate of the university and cooperates on joint research projects in human health.

The Virginia Tech campus continues to grow at a remarkable rate. In addition to the current expansion of Lane Stadium, many other construction projects are nearing completion. Earlier this year, the Chemistry/Physics building, the Career Services building, the new dairy science center and the Alphin-Stuart Livestock Arena opened their doors to students, faculty and the public. Phase II of the Virginia Bioinformatics Institute, the Agriculture and Natural Resources Research building, and the Alumni/Hotel/Conference Center are scheduled to be completed next year.

Demand for a Virginia Tech education remains high among the nation's brightest students. This year, the average grade point average for an entering first year student reached 3.7 and the average SAT score was 1203 — both record highs.

Earlier this year, the Institute for Advance Learning and Research in Danville dedicated its new facilities. The institute, under Virginia Tech's guidance, will play a critical role in a regional partnership to develop new educational opportunities, broadband infrastructure for research and industry, business development and community revitalization.

A registered architect and former dean of Virginia Tech's College of Architecture and Urban Studies, Steger was an architect of a different sort as the leader of the university's successful fund raising campaign that concluded in 1998. Under his leadership, as vice president for development and university relations, the Campaign for Virginia Tech raised $337 million. Last year, the university raised $62 million, $8 million more than it did the previous year.

Steger's ties to Virginia Tech span four decades as a student, professor, dean, vice president and now president. While on the faculty, he twice won teaching excellence awards. When he became dean of the College of Architecture and Urban Studies in 1981, he was the youngest architecture dean in the nation at 33 years of age.

President Steger sits on the boards of several organizations including the Carilion Biomedical Institute; Virginia Agriculture and Consumer Services; Virginia Advance Shipbuilding and Carrier Integration Board; Governor's Virginia Preparedness and Security Panel; Virginia Innovative Technology Authority, Chair; Virginia Space Grant Consortium, President; Virginia Council of Presidents, Chair; and World Institute for Disaster Risk Management, President.

He is a Fellow in the American Institute of Architects, and received the William C. Noland Award for distinguished service and accomplishments from the Virginia Society of the AIA. The First Virginia Chapter of the National Society of Fundraising Executives recognized him as the Outstanding Fundraising Executive in 1999.

Steger received his Bachelor of Architecture degree, Master of Architecture degree and Ph.D., in Environmental Science and Engineering from Virginia Tech.

This story was contributed by Larry Hincker, Associate Vice President for University Relations.

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS ABVABU MIL

James C. Weaver, whose innovative ideas and work as a reformer have made him one of college athletics' most popular administrators, is the director of athletics at Virginia Tech.

Weaver, 59, was appointed on Sept. 24, 1997 and has been a tireless leader on behalf of Tech athletics. In his years on the job at Tech, Weaver has taken steps to place increased emphasis on projects benefiting student-athletes. He created a comprehensive awards program for letterwinners and has initiated and funded an annual awards banquet.

Weaver is presiding over Tech's move into the Atlantic Coast Conference in 2004-05.

Effective July 1, 2004, Virginia Tech and Miami became the 10th and 11th members of the ACC.

"I'm excited for our fans and our constituency," Weaver said. "This membership is something that the fan base and alumni and friends of Virginia Tech have wanted for a long time. It's home for us. We've had prior relationships with these institutions for many years and this is something our fans are excited about. I'm happy for them, for our coaches and for our student-athletes."

A top personal priority for Weaver is the continuing improvement of Tech's facilities. When it comes to athletic facilities, Weaver has a simple philosophy. "As soon as you sit still in terms of facilities, you have taken a step backward," he says.

Major renovations on the west side of Lane Stadium are currently under way. The fencing that surrounds the stadium will be replaced with an actual entrance, additional luxury suites will be constructed, as well as two private club seating areas, new concession stands, a new ticket office, new athletic fund offices, an Athletics Hall of Fame and a new student academic services area.

Virginia Tech contracted with GreenTech, Inc., of Richmond, Va., to install its highly innovative, ITM natural grass sports field system in Lane Stadium/Worsham Field prior to the 2001 season.

Under Weaver's direction, lighted football practice fields, conveniently located in the center of the athletics complex, were completed during the spring of 2001.

Four years ago, state-of-the-art video screens were added, and three seasons ago each seat in the Cassell Coliseum arena was refinished to a natural wood look. Two years ago, the athletics department completed the first of a three-step process to renovate and improve the ambulatory of the coliseum.

The installation of 1,000 permanent seats and restroom facilities have been completed on a regulation-size field for the men's and women's varsity soccer teams and the women's lacrosse team. The lighted game field is adjacent to two full-size practice fields.

Weaver was the key figure in reaching a fouryear agreement with Virginia in bringing the basketball games back to campuses for the first time since 1976. He also realigned the senior administrative staff to further promote the development of a broad-based athletics department. A dormant Monogram Club was revitalized under his direction, providing Hokie letterwinners of all eras a renewed link to Tech athletics. He also toughened the Hokies' non-conference football schedules, a move that gained real favor from Tech fans.

Weaver renegotiated Tech's multimedia rights contract with ISP Sports, creating a new business relationship and enhanced revenue for the athletics department. In the fall of 2000, Weaver arranged a joint venture with ISP to commit S2 million to purchase new scoreboards, upgraded sound systems, a 21x28 L.E.D. video display screen at Lane Stadium and two 9x12 wall mount L.E.D. video screens in Cassell Coliseum.

Last year, Weaver represented the BIG EAST at the NCAA's Sportsmanship Summit and as the BIG EAST AD representative on the Bowl Championship Series committee.

Weaver came to Tech from Western Michigan University where he was director of athletics from January 1996 until he came to Blacksburg. Prior to that, he was AD for three and a half years at UNLV, where he reconstructed a troubled athletic department.

Weaver brings a "Penn State mentality" to the position. He says that various schools' interest in him as a reformer through the years can be traced to Penn State and its reputation for how it conducts business in intercollegiate athletics.

It was with the Nittany Lions' football team that Weaver first made a name for himself in athletics. He was a center and linebacker on Penn State teams coached by the legendary Rip Engle and Joe Paterno.

A native of Harrisburg, Pa., Weaver was recruited to Penn State by Engle. He played three seasons under Engle and one under Paterno, who is still the coach of the Nittany Lions.

Weaver graduated from Penn State in 1967 with a bachelor's in psychology and rehabilitation education. He received a master's in college counselor education, also from Penn State, in 1968.

Weaver started a coaching career as an assistant at Penn State for six seasons.

He later was the offensive coordinator at Iowa State and head coach for one season at Villanova in 1974. He also spent five years as an assistant professor at Clarion State and three years as director of franchise sales at Athletic Attic.

Prior to landing the athletic director's job at UNLV, Weaver spent nine years at the University of Florida, which was sanctioned by the NCAA in 1983. He was a strong force at Florida in the field of compliance and concluded his time there as associate athletic director.

Weaver drew rave reviews at UNLV for his fund-raising expertise. He generated nearly $15 million in his time there.

While at Western Michigan, Weaver announced creation of a $7 million football center, stabilized fluctuating revenues and installed a CHAMPS Life Skills program.

Weaver and his wife Traci have four sons — Josh, Paul, Cole and Craig.

ATHLETIC PERFORMANCE: STRENGTH

One of the most important aspects of a successful college basketball program is its strength and conditioning program. Before the lights ever come on, before the players run out of the tunnel for the first game and before the first basket is ever scored for a season, college basketball players work on getting themselves physically prepared for the rigors of the season.

Thanks to the direction of Assistant Athletics Director for Athletic Performance Mike Gentry, the Virginia Tech strength and conditioning program is among the best in the nation, helping make the men's basketball program one of the best as well.

One of the main support centers of Tech men's basketball is the strength and conditioning program. The results of hard work by the staff and the student athletes have paid huge dividends as the Hokies have continually improved in preparing to join the ACC.

The men's basketball team trains in the beautiful 17,000-square-foot training center on the first level of the Merryman Athletic Center. The weight room facility features free-weight equipment, a full line of Hammer Strength equipment, 12 platforms and a 6,000-square-foot state-ofthe-art speed and agility room.

Tech also has the use of a 10-by-40-yard sand pit located outdoors and adjacent to the weight room. This pit is used for resistive running drills to improve speed.

Virginia Tech student athletes also have access to the Jim "Bulldog" Haren Weight Room. Located in Jamerson Athletic Center, the 5,000-square foot weight room was officially dedicated in September 1985 to Haren, a former Hokie football player and longtime supporter of the Virginia Tech Athletics Department. With the two facilities, the Hokies have more than 22,000 square feet of strength and conditioning training space.

Each player has personal goals, which he works to achieve. There are two strength awards for the team — the personal record breaker and the elite award. In order to receive the personal record breaker award, the individual has to break all of his personal records. For the elite award, the player has to average a seven on a scale of 10 on all the exercises.

The Elite Level of Performance was created to push the athletes to higher levels. This level is a predetermined performance test, which measures achievement for the individual's position. It comprises four tests in strength (bench press, squat, push jerk and power clean) and five tests in performance (vertical jump, 40-yard time, 10-yard time, sit-reach test and 20-yard shuttle).

Assisting Gentry in the weight room this year are full-time assistant strength and conditioning coaches: Jay Johnson, director of strength and conditioning, and Terry Mitchell, assistant director of strength and conditioning.

Former Tech football players Shyrone Stith, Steve Canter and Mike Jackson are graduate assistants for strength and conditioning.

DR. MIKE GENTRY Director of Strength and Conditioning

Dr. Mike Gentry is in his 17th season as the Hokies' director of strength and conditioning. As assistant athletics director for athletic performance, his duties include overseeing the strength and conditioning training of athletes in all 21 varsity sports at Virginia Tech. He is directly involved in the training of the football and women's basketball teams and manages programs for nutrition.

In May 2003, Gentry was honored by the Collegiate Strength and Conditioning Coaches when he was named a Master Strength and Conditioning Coach. Gentry is currently one of only 36 coaches in the country to have received the CSCC's highest award.

A native of Durham, N.C., Gentry received his bachelor's degree in physical education from Western Carolina University in 1979 and received his master's from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1981. He received his doctorate in curriculum and instruction, with an emphasis in motor behavior, from Virginia Tech in 1999.

Gentry worked as an assistant strength coach at UNC and as the head strength coach at East Carolina University prior to coming to Virginia Tech in 1987.

In 1995 and 1996, Gentry was recognized by the National Strength and Conditioning Association as a finalist for the National Strength and Conditioning Professional of the Year.

Gentry has a son, Roy Christopher, who is 14.

DR. JAY JOHNSON Assistant Director of Strength and Conditioning

Dr. Jay Johnson coordinates the strength and conditioning program for the men's basketball team. He is a graduate of Emory & Henry College, where he played football for four seasons. He earned a master's degree from Radford University and earned his Ph.D. from Virginia Tech in 2001 in curriculum and instruction.

Johnson came to Virginia Tech in 1999 after serving as the head strength coach at Radford from 1996-99, working primarily with the basketball team. He is certified by the National Strength and Conditioning Association (Certified Strength and Conditioning Specialists), Collegiate Strength and Conditioning Coaches Association (Strength and Conditioning Coache Certified) and USA Weightlifting (Club Coach Certification).

ATHLETIC PERFORMANCE: NUTRITION

Amy Freel Sports Nutritionist

Eating healthy and choosing nutritious diets are important aspects of a Virginia Tech student-athlete's life, and that's why in July 2002, the athletics department implemented the sports nutrition program. Amy Freel serves as the director. Freel works individually with student-athletes to provide them with information they need on their diet. She also provides individual players with diet counseling on issues such as gaining lean muscle mass, losing body fat and eating choices to improve performance.

She also designs individual meal plans for athletes. Freel gives an on-campus dining education seminar. She also provides over 300 athletic department recipe books and supplement bars for every athletic team.

"It is extremely beneficial for our student-athletes to have nutrition education and counseling available to them in order for them to remain successful in their sports and outside of athletics," Freel said. "The individualized nutrition education allows me and the athletes to get very specific on their nutritional, personal and sportspecific goals."

Also in July 2002, the Virginia Tech Athletics Department purchased the BOD POD body composition system. Tech is one of a handful of college athletic departments using this type of technology. The BOD POD is found in many professional training facilities, such as the NFL and Major League Baseball. It accurately measures body composition (percent of body fat, lean muscle mass and fat mass) through air displacement within five minutes. Research has shown that an increase in lean muscle mass will increase athletic performance. The Sports Nutrition Program has helped countless Tech athletes maximize their athletic performance.

ATHLETIC PERFORMANCE: PSYCHOLOGY

Cook Counseling Center.

Bennett meets with student athletes on an individual basis for personal counseling and to discuss the mental aspects of the game. He also works on team building, communication and performance enhancement.

Mike Gentry, assistant AD for athletic performance, says, "I've always felt that (sport psychology) was an important element. We want to be a holistic model of an athletics department, and we wanted to and needed to include sport psychology in that model."

"We try to address all the various factors that affect student-athletes' performance on and off the field," Bennett says. "We believe we can help athletes perform better by addressing those concerns."

The sport psychology department also offers an injury group to afford injured athletes the opportunity to meet with other injured athletes and talk about their recovery process. Injured athletes also may meet individually with the sport psychologists if they do not feel comfortable in the group or cannot make the sessions. On average, the psychologists conduct 20 individual sessions per week and also meet weekly with teams as the need arises.

A new addition to the sport psychology resources is the Dynavision 2000, a unique conditioning and training program designed to increase focus and concentration, improve coordination and visuomotor reactions, and increase peripheral awareness. Virginia Tech is privileged to be one of only a handful of schools with this cutting-edge technology.

The response to the sport psychology program has been very positive. The student-athletes are very receptive to the services offered by the doctors. The sport psychology office reaches out to athletes who may not have considered going to the counseling service that is offered to all students at Virginia Tech.

"It is a great resource for our coaches and our athletes," Gentry says. "We've improved a lot in areas of strength and conditioning, nutrition and in sport psychology. It's all about becoming a well-rounded athletic program and helping student athletes. We want to give them all the resources we can, to put them in a position to be successful."

Dr. Gary Bennett provides sport psychology services to student athletes on a team or individual basis.

STUDENT ATHLETE ACADEMIC SUPPORT SERVICES

The success of Virginia Tech's men's basketball program rests largely on the academic progress of each student athlete. The academic performance of Tech student athletes has improved each year due in part to the Student Athlete Academic Support Services (SAASS).

The Virginia Tech graduation rate for student athletes has risen significantly in recent years and reached 65 percent in 2003 as compared to the national average of 62 percent. The 70 percent student athlete graduation rate marks the second straight year and fifth time in the last 10 years that Tech has reached that level.

The lone senior on this season's team, Carlos Dixon, has already graduated with a degree in apparel housing resource management with a concentration in residential property management. Last year's lone senior, Bryant Matthews, graduated last May in four years.

Over the last decade, 85 percent of the student athletes who have used their eligibility have gone on to graduate.

Student athletes are the most visible student component of a university. They entertain thousands of fans, students and alumni. Their athletic ability and achievement is the primary focus for national media attention. Athletic events bring back not only faithful alumni, but are a welcome mat for potential new students.

Student athletes devote many hours to practice, conditioning and training that are not required of all students. Due to their time commitment and their high visibility, it is an obligation and in the best interest of the university to supply these students with services that will allow them to maximize their academic potential.

The Virginia Tech Student Athlete Academic Support Services office is committed to providing fundamental and supplemental programming, consistent with University and NCAA policy, aimed at enhancing each student athlete's educational experience.

Stakeholders of the office's mission include student athletes and their families, the university community, coaches and athletics administrators. SAASS seeks to develop relationships with its stakeholders that are founded on trust and respect, and provides the following services to accommodate their needs:

- University and NCAA information
- Orientation
- Academic assessment

- The development of an effective student life program
- Appropriate referrals
- · Monitored study environments
- Tutorial programs
- State of the art technological learning assistance
- Student Athlete academic performance evaluations

The expectations of the Virginia Tech community are that each student athlete achieves his or her maximum academic and athletic potential. With the proper assistance, facilities and encouragement, these potentials can become a reality.

Student Athlete Academic Support Services provides programming for student athletes from their freshman year through graduation. This includes a comprehensive orientation to Tech, study hall, mentoring, tutoring, academic monitoring, academic recognition and eligibility education. Additionally, student athletes are referred to and encouraged to take advantage of other campus agencies charged with helping students in their academic pursuits.

Academic facilities for student athletes include the Monogram Room, a large room used as a study hall area, adjacent to the SAASS office in Cassell Coliseum. The HEAT (Hokies Engaging in Advanced Technology) Lab and its satellite sites house more than 40 computers on the second and third floors of Cassell Coliseum. Laptop computers also are available for Tech athletes to use when traveling to away contests. The athletic department also provides areas for private, quiet study for the athletes' convenience.

Together, these spaces provide the student athlete with a variety of study environments conducive to their success. Athletes can use these facilities between classes, after practice or in the evenings, with flexible hours tailored to make the most of a student athlete's limited time.

Chris Helms, in his sixth year at Tech, is the director and is responsible for the development and leadership of the Student Athlete Academic Support Services office.

Lois Berg, associate director, begins her 16th year at Tech. She is primarily in charge of developing the freshman orientation program, which ensures the student athlete a smooth transition from high school to the university.

She is also responsible for providing programming to assigned student athletes from the sports of baseball, softball, men's and women's swimming, men's and women's tennis, managers, trainers, cheerleaders and HighTechs.

Katie Ammons is an assistant director who begins her sixth year and works with the men's and women's basketball, men's and women's cross country and men's and women's track programs.

Ammons is also in charge of the operation of the HEAT Lab and other computing resources available for student athletes. Ammons is a former standout Hokie student athlete.

Drew Scales begins his third year with Student Athlete Academic Support Services as an assistant director. Scales provides academic support for student athletes in lacrosse, volleyball, men's and women's soccer and wrestling, in addition to overseeing the mentoring program.

Terrie Repass begins her 30th year of service at Virginia Tech. She serves as the office secretary and "first contact" person for the SAASS. She is responsible for organizing special events and meetings for the office. Repass prepares all accounting, purchasing and travel transactions for the office.

CHRIS HELMS Director of Student Athlete Academic Support Services

In his sixth year at Virginia Tech, Chris Helms is the director and is responsible for the development and leadership of the Student Athlete Academic Support Services office. Helms oversees an office comprising two associate directors, three assistant directors, an intern and a secretary forming a group of professionals serving the needs of all student-athletes.

In addition to his duties directing SAASS, Helms serves as a liaison between the academic and athletic communities and is an ad hoc member of the University Athletic Committee.

Helms came to Tech from Michigan State University, where he served as the assistant director of the Student Athlete Support Services office.

Prior to MSU, Helms served as the coordinator of academic affairs for the Florida State University football program. Some of his other experience includes academic advisement for student-athletes at Central Connecticut State University.

SAASS STAFF

Helms earned his bachelor's degree in psychology at Wake Forest University and received his master's in athletic counseling from Springfield College.

A native of Frederick, Md., he and his wife, Renee, have a son, Walker, and a daughter, Meigs.

KATIE AMMONS Assistant Director of Student Athlete Academic Support Services

Katie Ammons is in her sixth year as an assistant director, and returned to her alma mater in October 1999 when she was named to the post.

She serves as the academic coordinator for the men's and women's basketball programs as well as the men's and women's cross country and men's and women's track and field programs. In addition, she also serves as the coordinator for the student-athlete computer lab and technical liaison for the office.

ATHLETICS OFFICE OF STUDENT LIFE

The Virginia Tech Athletics Office of Student Life is committed to developing the total student-athlete. Director Megan Armbruster is dedicated to enhancing the quality of the student-athlete experience through the programs that this office administers.

Last year, each athletic team was encouraged to complete two or more personal development workshops on a variety of topics. Subjects included How to Live Off-Campus, Media Relations, Alcohol 101 and Student-Athlete Scrutiny and Community Conduct. Also, a Women's Sports Summit, attended by seven women's athletics teams, focused on issues such as healthy relationships and healthy body image.

In addition to workshops held by each team, Virginia Tech student-athletes participate in community outreach, with more than 50 community service events just last year, allowing for more than 500 volunteer opportunities. Basketball players took trips to local hospitals and nursing homes, in addition to visiting numerous schools in Montgomery County. They also helped out at the Montgomery County Christmas Store. Players visited local high schools in November for American Education Week, middle schools in March for Read Across America Week and elementary schools in April for Winning Choices Week, impacting more than 4,000 students.

Last year, members of the basketball team also participated in the White Ribbon Campaign, the largest effort in the world of men working to end men's violence against women.

A new outreach program developed by the Virginia Tech Athletics Office of Student Life is the team community partners program, where each athletic team selects one local charity on which to focus their philanthropic efforts throughout the year. The basketball team will partner with the Boys & Girls Club of the New River Valley this season.

Armbruster says, "The goal of our office is to provide students with the total college experience. When athletes graduate, I want them to look back and believe they had full access to a variety of opportunities while at Virginia Tech."

VIRGINIA TECH STUDENT ATHLETE ADVISORY COMMITTEE

The Virginia Tech Student Athlete Advisory Committee (VT-SAAC) promotes effective communication between athletic administration and student-athletes. SAAC comprises two representatives from each sport team who meet twice a month to discuss issues and concerns regarding their sports and the department of athletics. Coleman Collins and Allen Calloway represent the men's basketball team.

The SAAC encourages its teammates to get involved both on campus and in the community. The SAAC representatives help to design and provide programs that encourage academic success, health promotion, social responsibility and general awareness.

Upon entering the Atlantic Coast Conference, one member of the VT-SAAC will be chosen to represent Virginia Tech at the ACC-SAAC. This year, the SAAC representative from the men's basketball team is sophomore Coleman Collins.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT

In close collaboration with the Virginia Tech Career Services Center, programs and workshops are designed specifically for student-athletes. Resume design, career fair etiquette, mock interviews, interview attire and mini-career fairs are just a few examples of workshops hosted by the Athletics Office of Student Life. Student-athletes are encouraged to participate in on-campus interviewing and eRecruiting, along with securing internships and co-ops during their college careers. Last year, nearly 100 student-athletes attended the Student-Athlete Career Expo and 65 on-campus interviews were conducted as a result of the expo.

Coleman Collins reads to youngsters as part of an activity arranged through the Athletic Department's Office of Student Life.

STUDENT LIFE STAFF

Megan Armbruster Director

Megan Armbruster is in her second year at Virginia Tech as the director of student life. As director, she oversees the day-to-day operation of the office of student life, as well as direct the HiTOPS CHAMPS/Life Skills Program.

Armbruster came to Tech from the University of Nebraska, where she had spent the previous several years. She last served as assistant academic counselor at the Hewit Academic Center for Student-Athletes for two years. While pursuing her master's degree, Armbruster also held various internships at NU, working in admissions, university housing, the Vice-Chancellor's Office and the Campus Recreation Center.

She earned her bachelor's degree in community health education in 1998 and received her master's in educational administration in 2001, both from Nebraska.

SPORTS MEDICINE PROVIDING EXPERIENCED, PROFESSIONAL HEALTH CARE

The Virginia Tech Sports Medicine Department is an ever-changing and developing unit that strives to provide the most current and comprehensive care to all student-athletes. The department is constantly evolving to incorporate new ideas and state-of-the-art resources for the betterment of student-athletes.

A professional staff — including primary care physicians who are Board certified in family medicine and sports medicine, orthopaedic surgeons, certified athletic trainers, physical therapists, chiropractors, massage therapists, sport psychologists, nutritionists and orthotists — is available to manage the health care of Tech athletes.

As part of the evolution, Tech recently completed its second full year in the new 4,300-square-foot Eddie Ferrell Memorial Training Room. This area consolidated the training rooms that existed in the Merryman Center and Cassell Coliseum. The new facility gives the training staff a centralized area to care for the needs of all Virginia Tech student-athletes. There is top-ofthe-line equipment and a unique style of architecture, developed by Glenn Reynolds, AIA and Larry Perry as the consulting engineer.

The new room, which nearly doubles the size of the former Merryman Center facility, also allows the staff to utilize that room for physical therapy, chiropractic care and massage therapy. With its completion, Virginia Tech now has more than 10,000 square feet dedicated to sports medicine, placing Tech in the top five percent nationally. In addition, the $10 million Merryman Center, a state-of-the-art facility which includes 2,400 square feet of medical space, will supplement the new training room. This treatment room has numerous treatment modalities, including portable X-ray, electric stimulation, ultrasound, hot and cold packs and a lumbar/cervical traction unit. It also has offices for the staff, dozens of training tables, two cold tubs, whirlpools, an underwater treadmill, a Biodex System 3 and various other pieces of rehabilitation equipment. "We, as a staff, are very pleased with our new facility and the opportunity for all of us to come together for the benefit of our athletes," said Mike Goforth, director of athletic training.

Research also is considered to be instrumental to the sports medicine department. The department has participated in grant development and data collection for a strategic health care planning grant. This grant, titled "The Center for Performance and Sports Medicine Excellence," was initiated by Dr. Charles Baffi, Dr. Kerry Redican, Dr. Mike Gentry and Goforth, and was awarded to develop a multidisciplinary model for Division I health care.

"Our goal with this program is to formally provide our athletes with the most effective and efficient health care delivery system possible," Goforth said. "This grant will serve as a framework for universities across the country to provide high-level health care services for their athletes, and at the same time, creates the first collaboration between academic research and athletics here at Virginia Tech."

The Virginia Tech Sports Medicine Department in conjunction with the Via College of Osteopathic Medicine and other research departments at Tech also has initiated several new research projects focusing on head injuries, ankle injuries and the treatment of low back conditions. The head injury study, titled B.I.E.R.S.T. (Brain Injury Evaluation in Real Time Sports Trauma), started last season and is an exciting new pilot study that evaluates the forces generated in helmets during real-time events in football. The project is headed by Dr. Gunnar Brolinson and Stephan Duma from mechanical engineering and has steadily gained the attention of both the medical and engineering communities.

After the sports medicine staff diagnoses and treats an ill or injured athlete, the staff then starts collaborative work with the strength and conditioning staff to give the best injury prevention and performance enhancing programs possible. The training, medical, and strength and conditioning staffs each have a role in bringing the athlete back quickly and ready to play. After an injury, an athlete will go through rehabilitation and physical therapy. Athletes are then moved to weight training as they become able. The strength and conditioning staff uses specific programs for each injury in an effort to get the athlete back quickly. Prior to return to full participation, the athlete also will complete a series of drills and progressions that are specific to the athlete's position that will help insure that the athlete is ready to return with a greatly reduced risk of re-injury.

The range of benefits that athletes have access to include: custom orthotics, custom mouth guards, specialized DonJoy prophylactic bracing and many other options to help prevent or protect them from injuries. The sports medicine staff also takes great pride in treating the athlete yearround. Special attention is paid to off-season activity. During this time, the staff will analyze past injury data from each participant and construct a preventative program.

"If our strength and conditioning is so important, and it is, then we owe it to our athletes to provide them with the necessary resources to keep them actively participating," said Keith Doolan, men's basketball athletic trainer. "We basically adopt the attitude that in the winter, our mission is to keep them participating on the basketball court and during the other times of the year, it is our job to keep them participating in our strength and conditioning program."

Their programs consist of strengthening, stretching and most importantly movement pattern analysis and training to help prevent the reoccurrence of injuries.

"We value the off-season greatly within our department," Doolan said. "We have adopted the same mindset as our strength and conditioning staff and look at our off-season time as an opportunity to get our athletes better as opposed to time off for our staff."

A vital part of student-athletes services is the access to the Schiffert Student Health Center in McComas Hall. A health center and counseling services are available on one side of McComas Hall, while recreation sports and fitness programs are available on the other. The center also has a fully operational diagnostic laboratory, X-ray facilities and eight full-time physicians.

If physical therapy is needed, student-athletes can be seen by therapist Mark Piechoski in the Ferrell Training Room. Piechoski is a Certified Athletic Trainer, Physical Therapist, and Strength and Conditioning Specialist. He plays a large role in the overall program developed to return the injured athlete back to 100 percent. In addition, staff sport psychologist Gary Bennett is available to all student-athletes for personal and performance issues. Virginia Tech also has the services of Dr. Greg Tilley, team chiropractor. Dr. Tilley provides Tech athletes with specialized treatment for spine related conditions and also plays a huge role in performance enhancement through various chiropractic techniques.

"For us as certified athletic trainers to have the resources of professionals like Mark Piechoski, Greg Tilley and Gary Bennett is a tremendous asset," Doolan said. "The knowledge and skill

"Our goal is to provide the same high level of health care that professional and Olympic athletes receive," Doolan continued. "Our usage of specialist care is modeled after the NBA system and incorporates components of the Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs."

Tech also maintains a special relationship with Montgomery Regional Hospital. Montgomery Regional Hospital is the choice for state-of-theart equipment to perform surgeries, diagnostic imaging and processing of laboratory requests.

This year, the sports medicine staff working directly with the Hokies' men's basketball team will consist of Keith Doolan, ATC, team physician Delmas Bolin, M.D., orthopaedic surgeon Scott Urch, M.D., and Shannon Carneal, student athletic trainer. Athletes also have the opportunity to see any physician of their choice within the sports medicine team.

Over the past 10 years, Virginia Tech has developed the reputation for producing top-level certified athletic trainers. Graduates are now employed in positions across the country at various levels of the profession: Josh Signs (Marshall), Daniel Jarvis (Villanova), Jim Shorten (Appalachian State), Chris Peduzzi (Philadelphia Eagles), Danny Sterling (UVa Wise), Joe Whitson (Carson-Newman College), Jay McCloy (College of Wooster), as well as numerous others who are employed at the high school, collegiate and clinical levels.

VIRGINIA TECH ATHLETIC FUND

The 2003-2004 year was a great success with another record-setting performance for the Virginia Tech Athletic Fund, commonly referred to as the Hokie Club. Enthusiastic and supportive Hokie Club members helped the Hokie Club raise a record total of more than $18.5 million to support the scholarship and capital needs of the Athletics Department.

The Hokie Club is charged with raising funds to support the scholarship, capital and programmatic needs of the Athletics Department. Donors make gifts in outright forms such as cash, real estate, securities, gifts in kind or corporate matching programs. Planned or deferred gifts such as a will, living trust, life income trust, retirement plans, life insurance or charitable lead trusts are also accepted.

"Moving into the Atlantic Coast Conference will continue to add to the excitement surrounding Virginia Tech Basketball that Coach Seth Greenberg established last season," said Lu Merritt, Director of Development for Intercollegiate Athletics. "Our fans are eager to see the basketball program reach the level of success that they remember during its glory days when Cassell Coliseum was a real home court advantage. They fully understand that additional financial support is necessary for the Hokies to get back to this level, especially in the best basketball conference in the nation."

John Moody, Associate Director of Development, focuses on major gift fundraising and special projects. A former football player at Tech, Moody has worked in the Hokie Club for 32 years.

David Everett, Director of Major Gifts, serves the Richmond area in addition to his major gift responsibilities. Everett was a member of the Hokies' 1986 Peach Bowl Championship team.

Terry Bolt, Director of Development for Special Events and the Athletic Annual Fund, serves the Tidewater areas of Virginia, while also overseeing the planning and direction of the Annual Fund.

Brian Thornburg, Assistant Director of Development, serves southwest and central Virginia as well as the areas of North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Georgia while assisting with the annual fund.

The Hokie Club staff (1 to r): Lu Merrritt, John Moody, Brian Thornburg, Terry Bolt, David Everett, Brandy Bratton, Diana Fain, Sharon Linkous, Jane Broadwater, Vicky Moore and Tommy Graham (not pictured is Nancy Gabbard).

Sharon Linkous manages all member gifts, records and benefits for Hokie Club members as well as working closely with the Hokie Representative program. Vicky Moore handles gift entry and membership records for Hokie Club members. Diana Fain manages the budget process and produces all meeting notices for the Hokie Clubs. Jane Broadwater serves as executive secretary for the office. Nancy Gabbard works part-time in the office, bringing additional experience to the team.

The Athletic Fund is proud of its volunteers who help ensure that 65 Hokie Clubs throughout Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, North and South Carolina, Delaware, New Jersey, Georgia, Pennsylvania and Tennessee continue in their active efforts to support and promote athletics at Virginia Tech. Along with bus trips, game-watching parties and other social events, Tech alumni, fans and friends gather to cheer on the Hokies.

John Clary of Lawrenceville, Va., is the current president of the Virginia Tech Athletic Fund and Renny Lynch of Roanoke, Va., is the vice president.

HOHIESPORTS THE NEWSPAPER

A lot of new things are taking place in Blacksburg with Tech's entry into the Atlantic Coast Conference. But at least one thing is remaining constant — accurate information coming from hokiesports the newspaper.

This newspaper has served as the written voice of Virginia Tech's athletics department for the past 21 years. The newspaper, formerly the Hokie Huddler, came about in 1984 when then director of athletics and football coach Bill Dooley wanted an in-house publication devoted to coverage of all of Tech's sports, primarily football. Since then, the newspaper has undergone numerous changes, including a name change and a move to the Internet. But providing accurate, timely and quality information remains the constant for the newspaper staff.

"Being a weekly newspaper, we have some restraints dealing with the postal service," editor Jimmy Robertson said. "But going on-line has helped us overcome some of those and we're always going to be committed to being creative as far as the type of news and features we do for our print version. We want a publication that's both interesting and newsworthy, and to produce that type of publication, we have to be creative and do things differently than a daily newspaper."

During the past 10 years, subscriptions to the publication have soared as Tech fans everywhere crave to read about the success of Virginia Tech athletics and to read the most current information on what's happening within the athletics department.

Today, there are more than 6,300 devoted subscribers to the print version, and almost 200 registered for the on-line version of the paper, which became available to Hokie fans in the fall of 2000. The on-line version of the publication is entering its fifth year and has started to become a popular way to gain valuable information about Virginia Tech athletics.

"It enables people who live far away to get the information immediately rather than having to wait seven to 10 days," Robertson said. "Plus, we do a lot of writing for the athletics department Web site, hokiesports.com. We see this as a good way to cross-promote both the Web site and the newspaper, while continuing to provide information that fans want."

Hokiesports the newspaper is updated every week from late August through March on-line (bi-monthly in the spring) by the staff so news can get to Hokie fans as it happens.

"I hope that more fans will take advantage of the on-line version of the publication because the Internet is the wave of the future," Robertson said. "It's cheaper, too, which is another plus for fans."

The print version of the newspaper is a colorful publication that is printed 33 times per year — weekly during football and basketball seasons and bi-monthly during the spring. The newspaper consists of the ever-popular "Inside Tech Sports" section, which is a page of short blurbs of interesting "inside" information — things one won't get anywhere else. With hokiesports the newspaper being owned by the athletics department, it allows the staff to be closer to coaches and players to get that inside information. Most sports publications of this kind are independent of their school's athletics departments.

Hokiesports the newspaper also consists of columns by Robertson, Bill Roth, the Voice of the Hokies, and assistant editor Matt Spiers. Robertson focuses more on Tech, while Roth devotes more attention to ACC news. Spiers handles the layout and design of the publication and also covers women's basketball and writes features. Veteran photographer David Knachel, who began working on the paper in 1985, takes all the photos and designs the cover for each issue.

The up-to-date news provided in the paper is primarily on football, men's and women's basketball and baseball. Fans can get the depth chart (during the football season), features on players and former athletes (the 'Where are They Now?' section), statistics and standings, notes and quotes and recruiting profiles on football, men's and women's basketball recruits, along with information about other sports recruits as well. editor of the newspaper. Doug Waters served as the first editor in 1984-85 and then Chris Colston handled the duties for the next 11 years. Colston resigned in 1996 to take a job with Baseball Weekly (now Sports Weekly), leaving the job in the hands of Robertson.

Since then, Tech joined the BIG EAST for all sports, gone to bowl games every year, played for the national championship and sent off a second Hokie as the first pick in the NFL Draft. Now, by entering the ACC for all sports, the entire program has a bright future — which allows no limitations to hokiesports the newspaper and its potential.

For the printed version, a one-year subscription costs $37.95, while a two-year subscription costs $69.95. For an additional $12 per year, fans who subscribe to the print version can access the on-line version. Or, for $25 annually, fans who don't subscribe to the print version can view the entire newspaper via the Internet. Also, newspapers are available on newsstands at certain convenience stores through the Blacksburg-Christiansburg area. For additional subscription information, call the hokiesports the newspaper office at (540) 231-3908, or visit the Web site at www.hokiesports.com.

ROUNDBALL CLUB

The Virginia Tech Roundball Club, founded at the beginning of the 2000-2001 season, has quickly become a major supporter of Hokie basketball. The group, made up of Tech fans from all areas of the community, provides vocal support in Cassell Coliseum and behind-the-scenes support off the court.

The club is managed by a 12-person executive committee. For more information on the Roundball Club, e-mail rndball@vt.edu or contact the men's basketball office at (540) 231-6725.

The mission of the Roundball Club is to:

- Promote public awareness of the Virginia Tech men's basketball program.
- Foster the goals and policies of the Virginia Tech Athletics Department.

• Provide the level of spirited support and resources required for the program to achieve national prominence.

VIRGINIA TECH ISP SPORTS NETWORK

"From the blue waters of the Chesapeake Bay to the hills of Tennessee, the Virginia Tech Hokies are on the air!"

That familiar refrain — delivered by Bill Roth, the Voice of Virginia Tech basketball — opens every Tech sports broadcast and reflects the network's goal of reaching Hokie fans everywhere. So, whether they're sailing off Virginia's eastern shore, hiking in the Blue Ridge Mountains, or sitting in their homes anywhere in the state, Tech fans know they're always within range of a Virginia Tech ISP Sports Network radio station.

ISP Sports also produces The Hokie Hotline radio talk show featuring Roth and Tech coach Seth Greenberg every Monday night. The Hokie Hotline also can be heard worldwide every Monday night on hokieTV.com's exclusive Web cast from 7-8 p.m., Eastern time.

The network's award-winning television magazine show, Virginia Tech Sports Today, is seen every Sunday on a network of TV stations and cable networks throughout Virginia and the southeastern United States. The show includes weekly highlights and previews, focusing on Tech basketball.

Roth — Virginia's six-time Sportscaster of the Year — is in his 17th season as the Voice of Virginia Tech basketball. A native of Pittsburgh, Pa., Roth graduated from Syracuse University in 1987 earning a degree in broadcast journalism. In addition to his duties with Hokies, Roth works for ESPN in that network's coverage of NCAA baseball, basketball and lacrosse among other sports. Roth, who was inducted into Virginia Tech's Monogram Club in 2000, is on the Board of Directors of the Montgomery County United Way and is a frequent public speaker at Virginia Tech events.

Virginia Tech Hall of Famer Mike Burnop is in his ninth season as the analyst on Tech men's basketball broadcasts. The colorful Burnop owns and operates New River Office Supply stores throughout the region and was recently named Blacksburg's Businessman of the Year.

Burnop, who also has served as color announcer on the Tech football network for the past 21 seasons, was a starting tight end for the Hokies in the early 1970s. He was inducted into Virginia Tech's Hall of Fame in 2000.

Together, Roth and Burnop compose one of college athletics' longest-running broadcasting teams, having described the action of every Tech football game dating back to the 1988 season.

A graduate of UCLA, Luftman handled play-by-play duties for several Bruins' sports for two years including baseball and women's basketball before coming to Tech. He also hosted UCLA BruinTalk, a television program featuring UCLA athletes, coaches, and administrators

Tech game broadcasts and other network programs are available to fans anywhere in the world via Tech's official Web site, hokiesports.com. In addition, many Virginia Tech ISP Sports Network broadcasts also will be available on XM Satellite radio throughout North America.

VIRGINIA TECH MONOGRAM CLUB

The Monogram Club was originally created as a social organization for former athletes who earned at least one monogram (letter) in any varsity sport at Virginia Tech. All former coaches are designated as honorary members. This club is an opportunity for athletes to remain active with and connected to their sport once their careers are completed.

The main goal of this club is to keep an open line of communication between the Athletics Department and the former letterwinners. Athletes are encouraged by way of sponsored pregame and postgame social events to come back and reconnect with their old teammates and coaches. Over the past six years, the club has been revitalized under new direction.

In 1998, Terry Strock, a veteran coach and administrator for many years at Tech, became the first full-time director of the Monogram Club. Under his leadership, the club more than doubled its membership, increasing from 220 active members to 550. Its total membership now sits at more than 700 active members. When Strock retired in 2000, former football letterman Derek Carter took over for one year before becoming director of athletics at Virginia State University.

In 2001, the club proudly welcomed its current director, Russ Whitenack, the former Virginia Tech men's head track coach of 28 years from 1974-2002.

"Many people stop by to see old friends," said Whitenack. "That is what we want to provide. If you're a former athlete, (the Monogram Club) is the best way to stay connected." Anyone who joins the Monogram Club receives a personalized membership card that grants them access to the variety of events sponsored by the club. The Monogram Club hosts two free tailgates per year, open only to members. One is before the annual Spring Game, and the other occurs early in the fall. In addition, the club hosts tailgates at every football game in the Ambulatory of Cassell Coliseum. Tickets to these tailgates are available only to members of the Monogram Club. Members of the club are eligible to enter the annual golf tournament, and are welcome to attend a weekend of wine tasting, all sponsored by the Monogram Club.

The member benefits include a subscription to hokiesports the newspaper which is published 33 times per year. Each member is given the right to purchase four tickets from an allotment of 100 located in the South End Zone stands to attend individual football games.

"We would really like to reach people we don't have contact information for," Whitenack said. Whitenack encourages all former athletes to update their information regularly through hokiesports.com.

Last year, a complimentary membership was instituted to recent graduates, allowing them a three-year membership into the club once their eligibility has expired. Membership dues are $40 per year with a discounted rate of $160 for five years. The membership year lasts from July 1 to June 30. A lifetime membership has been installed with the amount set at $800, and $600 for former athletes over the age of 65.

RUSS WHITENACH

For 28 years, Whitenack held the reins of the men's track program, guiding it to conference titles and national recognition. Prior to taking over in 1974, Whitenack served as an assistant coach for two years. In addition to being the men's coach, he also guided the women's team for 10 years during the 1980s and early 1990s.

A 1969 graduate of the University of Tennessee, Whitenack was a member of the Volunteers' All-America 440-yard relay team. UT won three Southeastern Conference team championships during his four years on the squad. He served for one season as a graduate assistant at Tennessee and three years as coach at Palmetto Junior High in Miami before coming to Tech in 1972.

During Whitenack's tenure as coach, the Tech program produced 20 All-Americans, including former coach Steve Taylor and Erick Kingston. Whitenack led the Hokies to two Metro Conference indoor championships, one in 1993 and one in 1994, and he was chosen by his peers as Metro Coach of the Year during the 1992 outdoor season and again following Tech's 1993 indoor championship. During the late 1990s, the Hokies dominated the Atlantic 10 Conference, capturing both the indoor and outdoor titles four straight years. Whitenack was named the A-10 indoor and outdoor coach of the year for each of those victories. He also received the Walt Comrack Award for excellence in coaching from the Virginia Military Institute in 1997.

Whitenack and his wife, Judy, have one son, Jon. In his spare time, Whitenack enjoys outdoor activities, especially kayaking, boating and jet-skiing.

BLACHSBURG

One of America's best college towns, Blacksburg is a perfect setting for Virginia Tech.

Located in Southwest Virginia on a plateau between the Blue Ridge and Alleghany Mountains, Blacksburg combines the laid-back lifestyle of a small town with the amenities one would expect to find around a major center of higher education. Together, the town and university have worked hard to create a progressive community that ranks among the nation's elite living environments.

Virginia Tech and the Town of Blacksburg gained national and international attention by creating the world's first "electronic village." Businesses and industries have been drawn by the potential of the quaint town.

Established in 1798 by John and William Black, the town is surrounded by scenic mountain views that distinguish the area.

The nearly 36,000 residents (including students) enjoy a close proximity to a variety of recreation areas such as the Blue Ridge Parkway, Appalachian Trail, Claytor Lake and the New River. The region features a moderate climate and four distinct seasons.

Blacksburg's location (adjacent to major interstate highways) provides convenient access to most points in the southern and eastern parts of the country.

More information on Blacksburg can be found on the Web site of the Blacksburg Electronic Village, www.bev.net or the town's Web site, www.blacksburg.va.us.

Blacksburg's downtown festival, Steppin' Out, always draws a big crowd.
