VT 2002 OUTLOOK

Year Two in the BIG EAST and a New Coach

The Virginia Tech men's soccer team will look quite different this fall. Five starting seniors are gone from a team that made the BIG EAST tournament during its inaugural season in the league and finished .500 in conference play (4-4-2). A new head coach will lead the Hokies. Oliver Weiss replaced Jerry Cheynet on February 1, 2002, to become only the third coach in Virginia Tech history. Coach Cheynet will remain with the program until his retirement at the end of the 2003 season.

Wins over nationally-ranked Rutgers (3-2 in OT) and Syracuse (2-0), along with a tie against Final Four participant St. John's, were among the highlights of last year's 11-6-2 season. A 2-1 overtime loss in the BIG EAST quarterfinals to defending national champion and BIG EAST regular season champion, Connecticut, brought a terrific season to a close.

Weiss will have his work cut out for him, but the goals for 2002 remain clear — to continue to improve upon Tech's success in the BIG EAST while rebuilding the team with young and hungry players. Some of these players played significant roles during the 2001 season; most of them will be tested for the first time.

"Anytime you lose a great core of experienced players, you will have to mention the word 'rebuilding'," Weiss said. "However, a good spring season left us all hopeful that we can bridge the gap with our strong group of seniors, underclassmen, and newly recruited blue chips. It will be a challenge to return to the elite in the BIG EAST, but I am confident that we will get the most out of our pool of talented players."

Goalkeepers

Who will replace the MVP from last year's team, Colin Kibler? That's probably been the most frequently-asked question over the past eight months. Kibler had a 0.90 goals-against average last fall and was clearly one of the reasons Tech had a great campaign. The answer was simple once the Hokies completed their spring games. Junior Chris Davidovicz (Charlotte, N.C.) earned himself the spot with his shutout performances against Davidson, the Richmond Kickers, and Radford. He gave up one goal in a tie with North Carolina.

"If I had to pick our starting keeper after the spring, it would be Chris for sure," Weiss said. "He was solid all spring and kept us in a couple of close games. However, everybody on the team knows that positions are earned day-in and day-out. I am sure Chris will defend his spot in the fall."

The two other returning keepers are sophomores Evan Mahan (Bethesda, Md.) and Jeff Graham (Lusby, Md.). Both are young and have been dedicated members of the team. Chase Harrison, a freshman from Huntington, W.Va., rounds out the goalie foursome.

Bobby O'Brien (left) is the Hokies' top returning scorer in 2002. Harold Russell (above) will help anchor the Virginia Tech defense this season.

Defenders

The one area that seems to have been least affected by graduation is the Tech defense. Garret Owens will be missed from last fall's four-man back line. Senior Keith Benderoth (Woodbridge, Va.) may be the most experienced returnee. His tenacity and resilience will set the standard for excellence in keeping teams off the board. Junior Harold Russell (Swarthmore, Pa.) should also be in top form after nursing an injury for most of the spring season. His determination and tackling ability should help the Hokie defense. Senior Greg Medsker (Fredericksburg, Va.) played well at center back during spring training and will more than likely find a spot in that capacity or as a sweeper. Another senior back, Michael Piranian (Lexington, Va.), is expected to give the team much needed experience after redshirting in 2000 and playing in 13 games last fall.

"It's very comforting to walk into a team with this much experience in the backfield," Weiss said about his defenders. One newcomer should also bring a wealth of experience to the Hokies this fall, but by virtue of age. Lasse Mertins (Rotenburg, Germany) can play any defensive position or defensive midfield. The 24-year-old Mertins will join the men's soccer program for two years while working on a masters' degree. He played the last two years in the German 4th division with Rotenburger SV.

Midfield

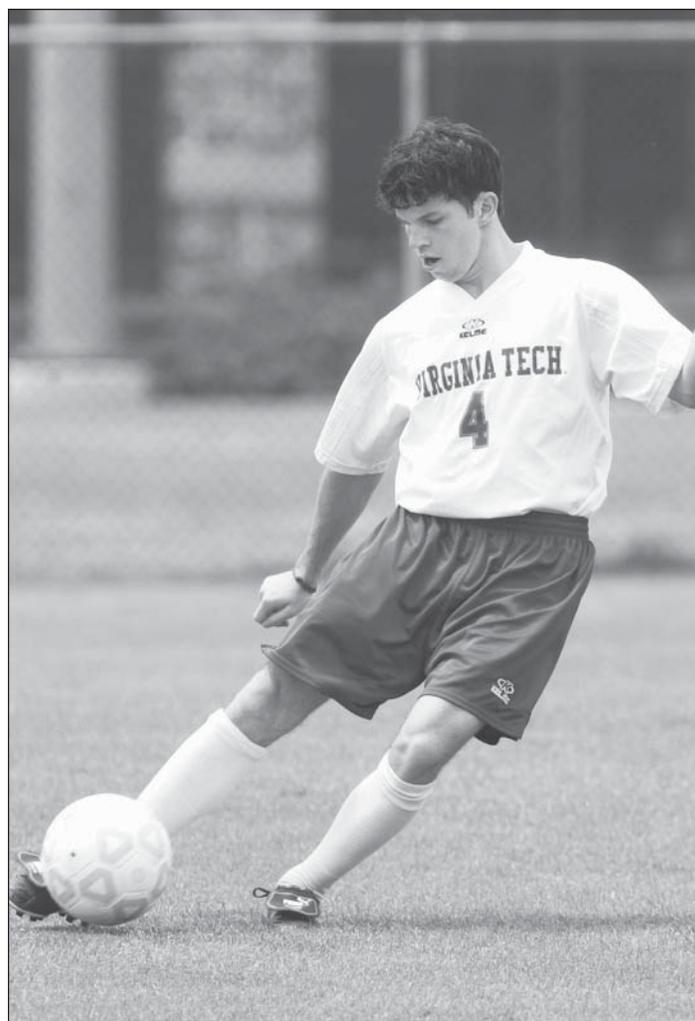

The departure of Tech's career assist leader, Fred Silva, along with Ty Enmark and Jeremy Parsels, leaves a big hole in the midfield. Senior Captain Rob Smith (Greenville, S.C.) will help direct teammates in the center of the field with his leadership and experience. Park Ridge, N.J., native Eric Prigot, also a senior, must aid Smith in organizing the team from his central position. Prigot found the back of the net several times in the spring and is expected to continue the scoring trend in the fall. John Havas (Mechanicsburg, Pa.) will see time on the right outside position. His speed should cause problems for other teams. Sophomores Kenny Jonmaire (East Aurora, N.Y.) and Justin Bogner (Omaha, Neb.) will play dual roles as midfielders and forwards. Both are versatile enough to make an impact in both positions. Senior Karl Schlegel (Indianapolis, Ind.) returns after Marine boot camp at Quantico this summer to the outside midfield spot for the Hokies. Two more freshmen complete the list of midfielders. Peer Rogge (Schleswig, Germany) played attacking midfield for his 5th division club, TSB Flensburg, last year. He should find his role to be similar with the Hokies. Freshman Charlie Howe (Mechanicsville, Va.) was an all-state selection in high school and can present problems for opponents with his feistiness and ball-winning qualities.

Forwards

Junior Bobby O'Brien (Williamsburg, Va.) returns as the team's second-leading scorer with seven goals and four assists last year. During the spring, O'Brien grew with every training session into his role as the program's target man on the field. His lethal head balls and unconventional scoring methods make him unpredictable. Senior Drew Myers (High Point, N.C.) returns as the team's third-most potent point-getter. His five goals and two assists should double this year if he can stay healthy. Myers was sidelined with a shoulder injury all spring, but has fully recovered and is poised to leave his mark on the field come August. Another threat in the attack will come from Virginia Beach sophomore Bailey Allman. Allman's cunning passing skills and nose for the goal should make it difficult for opposing defenders to keep him from scoring. Blacksburg's own Dustin Bond is the program's fourth forward. Bond, a senior, has a terrific work rate and should get opportunities to strike at goal with his powerful shot.

The Hokies will embark on their second BIG EAST season full of hope and excitement. They hope to improve upon last year's success and to be in position to receive an NCAA Tournament bid.

Keith Benderoth started all 19 games for the Hokies last season.

VT COACHING STAFF

Oliver Weiss • Head Coach

Oliver Weiss became the new head coach at Virginia Tech on February 1, 2002. Weiss inherits a team that went 11-6-2 and made it to the BIG EAST Conference quarterfinals during its inaugural season in the league.

Prior to coming to Tech, Weiss served as the top assistant at the University of North Carolina from 1999-2001. He helped the Tar Heels win the 2001 national championship. During his three years in Chapel Hill, the team went 54-14-1 and earned a trip to the NCAA tournament each season. In 2000, UNC captured the ACC championship and was seeded No. 1 in postseason play.

Weiss is no stranger to soccer in Virginia. He served as an assistant at the College of William & Mary from 1996-1999, where he helped the Tribe to a 49-19-3 record and three trips to the national tournament. Before going to William & Mary, Weiss spent a year as an assistant at the University of New Hampshire.

Weiss began his coaching career during his last semester at the University of Richmond when he coached a local Under-10 team. A youth coaching career of eight years followed producing eight consecutive Virginia State Cup championships, along with a Region 1 championship and a trip to the 1995 Snickers USYSA National Championships. A 2-1 loss to the eventual national champion earned his Richmond Capitals team fourth place.

Weiss also coached in several other youth, high school, and Olympic Development programs: The Richmond Strikers Soccer Club, the Richmond Capitals Soccer Club, New Hampshire's Seacoast United Soccer Club, the Williamsburg Soccer Club, the Capital Area Soccer League in Raleigh, N.C., Patrick Henry High School in Ashland, Va., and Lafayette High School in Williamsburg.

Weiss was selected as the 1990 and 1995 Virginia Youth Soccer Association Coach of the Year. In 1995, he was honored as the NSCAA East Region and the USYSA Region 1 Coach of the Year.

In 1996, Weiss coached the USA Futsal team at the World University Games in Jyväskylä, Finland.

"The goal for Virginia Tech men's soccer is clear — we want to become one of the nation's elite programs year-in and year-out. We are in a great state for soccer prospects. We are also playing in the toughest soccer conference in the country, and our soccer facilities are being developed to that same standard. I can honestly say that the future of our program is very bright if we commit ourselves to hard work and excellence."

— Coach Oliver Weiss

Weiss holds a USSF 'A' coaching license and a German Soccer Federation 'B' license. He is also the director of the Virginia Tech Soccer Camp for Boys and the Junior Hokies Soccer Day Camp.

As a standout player at the University of Richmond, Weiss captained the team three out of his four years. He also earned All-Colonial Conference honors twice and South Atlantic honors once during his career with the Spiders. Weiss received his history degree from the university in 1988.

Weiss graduated from Central High School in High Point, N.C., in 1984. He was named North Carolina High School Player of the Year and earned All-America honors for the Bison.

A native of Burgdorf (a suburb of Hannover), Germany, Weiss became a United States citizen in 2000. He and his wife, Peggy, have a one-year-old daughter, Samantha.

Jerry Cheynet • Assistant Coach

Jerry Cheynet remains a fixture in Virginia Tech athletics as he enters his 28th year as a member of the Virginia Tech men's soccer program. He will handle the duties of the assistant coach this year as he closes out an enormously successful career as a Hokie.

In 2001, the seasoned leadership and game experience of Cheynet helped produce one of the soccer program's most successful seasons. Cheynet led a group of seasoned veterans into the BIG EAST Conference and emerged with an 11-6-2 overall record and a 4-4-2 record against conference opponents. That record earned the team a berth in the BIG EAST tournament.

In 2000, Cheynet helped his team pull out of a dismal 1-7-2 start and to a final record of 8-9-2, in which Tech won seven out of its last nine games. In 1999, Cheynet commanded the Tech squad to an impressive 11-8 record that marked the fourth season in a row that the Hokies had a winning season.

The previous year, 1998, also brought great success to men's soccer at Virginia Tech. Cheynet led his team to the final round of the Bell Atlantic/Atlantic 10 Championship before falling to Dayton, 1-0. The Hokies ended the season 11-9-1.

The Hokies posted a record-breaking season in 1997, a year in which the team earned a program-best 14 wins, set six school records, and won the regular-season conference crown. Cheynet was named the 1997 Atlantic 10 Coach of the Year.

Cheynet took over the head coaching role in the program's third year at the varsity level in 1974. He has compiled a record of 238-213-37 during his career at Tech.

Soon after his arrival, the Hokies put together five consecutive winning seasons, including their first 10-win campaign in 1981. Under Cheynet's guidance, the Hokies posted six consecutive seasons with 10 or more wins from 1988 to 1993.

Virginia Tech, with Cheynet at the helm, was the only school to win the Metro Conference Tournament title four times. The Hokies captured the championship in 1984, 1985, 1989 and 1990, beating Cincinnati in three of the four title games.

In a state with several powerhouse soccer programs, Cheynet has kept the Tech program successful through consistent coaching and strong recruiting efforts. He has guided many of his players to regional and national recognition and helped give some individuals the opportunity to pursue professional soccer careers.

In 1997 forward Matt Whalen was named to the All-South Atlantic team and in 1993, Eric McClellan and Tarik Walker garnered the same honors. During his career, Cheynet has had 11 players named to All-South Atlantic teams and 19 chosen for all-state teams.

In addition to his soccer duties at Tech, Cheynet also served as the head wrestling coach from 1975-95, compiling a record of 188-161-6. He was named Colonial Athletic Association Coach of the Year in 1993 after the Hokie grapplers captured the CAA championship. The following year, wrestler Josh Feldman earned All-America honors and finished seventh in the NCAA Championships.

Cheynet also directed the golf team from 1980 through 1983, leading the team to a state intercollegiate title in 1980.

A native of Wichita, Kan., Cheynet attended Kansas State University and competed in soccer and wrestling. He received All-America honors in wrestling during his senior year with the Wildcats. He graduated with a bachelor's degree in physical education in 1966 and received a master's from KSU in 1967.

Cheynet is married to the former Mary Jane Faust of Independence, Kan. The couple's two sons are both Hokies — George graduated with an M.B.A. in 1995 and John graduated in 1994 with a degree in forestry.

Kevin Korondi • Assistant Coach

There will be another new face in the coaching ranks this year for the Hokies. New assistant coach Kevin Korondi comes to the Tech sidelines after spending the past three years at the University of New Hampshire as the top assistant to head coach Rob Thompson. Korondi helped guide the Wildcats to their first America East tournament bid in 2001.

Prior to UNH, Korondi was involved in coaching soccer in Eastern Pennsylvania. He was an assistant at Council Rock High School in Newtown, Pa., and coached the Under-18 Council Rock Dynamo Boys Team. Korondi also worked with the New York State West Olympic Development Program (ODP) as an assistant with the 1982s.

Last year, he guided the Seacoast United U-16 team to the state championship title and this year the team was a state finalist. The 28-year-old Korondi also holds a NSCAA Advanced National Diploma.

Korondi graduated in 1997 from Trenton State College (N.J.) with a degree in secondary education, concentrating in English. Before transferring to Trenton State College, he attended Hartwick College where he was a member of the 1993 men's soccer team that reached the NCAA Elite Eight.

The HokieBird – Tech's lovable mascot

What Is a Hokie?

That's the most often-asked question in Virginia Tech athletics. The answer leads all the way back to 1896 when Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical College changed its name to Virginia Polytechnic Institute. With the change came the necessity for writing a new cheer and a contest for such a purpose was held by the student body. Senior O.M. Stull won first prize for his "Hokie" yell which still is used today. Later, when asked if "Hokie" had any special meaning, Stull explained the word was solely the product of his imagination and was used only as an attention-getter for his yell. It soon became a nickname for all Tech teams and for those people loyal to Tech athletics. The official school colors — Chicago maroon and burnt orange — also were introduced in 1896. They were chosen because they made a "unique combination" not worn elsewhere at the time.

VT BLACKSBURG, VA.

College Town, U.S.A.

A Beautiful Setting For One Of the Nation's Top Universities

One of America's classic college towns, Blacksburg is a perfect setting for Virginia Tech.

Located in Southwest Virginia on a plateau between the Blue Ridge and Alleghany Mountains, Blacksburg combines the laid-back lifestyle of a small town with the amenities one would expect to find around a major center of higher education. Together, the town and university have worked hard to create a progressive community that ranks among the nation's elite living environments. Blacksburg was recently named one of the Top 10 places to live by Outside magazine.

Virginia Tech and the Town of Blacksburg gained national and international attention by creating the world's first "electronic village." Businesses and industries have been drawn by the potential of the quaint town.

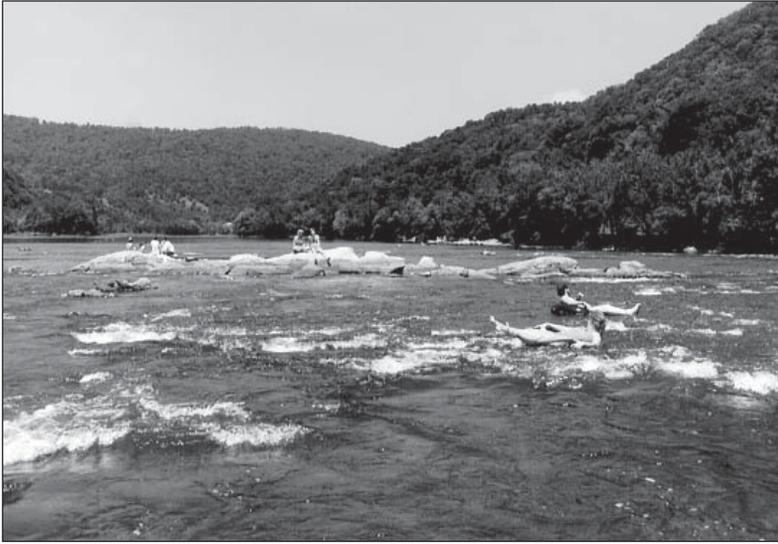

Established in 1798 by John and William Black, the town is surrounded by scenic mountain views that accentuate the area. The nearly 40,000 residents (including students) enjoy a close proximity to a variety of recreation areas such as the Blue Ridge Parkway, Appalachian Trail, Claytor Lake and the New River. The region features a moderate climate and four distinct seasons.

Whether it is downtown Blacksburg or the nearby Cascades, the area around Virginia Tech is charming and pleasant.

Blacksburg's location (adjacent to major interstate highways) provides convenient access to most points in the southern and eastern parts of the country.

More information on Blacksburg can be found on the Web site of the Blacksburg Electronic Village, www.bev.net, or the town's Web site, www.blacksburg.va.us.

There are four beautiful seasons in Blacksburg. When the weather turns warm in the spring, students head for McCoy Falls on the New River; the summer brings exciting festivals to town; the Homecoming Parade and football games highlight the fall; and winter and the holidays bring a special feeling to the town and surrounding areas.

VT VIRGINIA TECH

*A Great Place
To Grow and Learn*

Putting Knowledge To Work

Since its founding in 1872, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, popularly known as Virginia Tech, has grown from a small college of 132 students into Virginia's largest university and its top research institution. During its 130 years of existence, Virginia's premiere land-grant institution has evolved into a comprehensive university of national and international prominence.

Recognizing that higher education is a key force behind the quality of American life, our economic competitiveness, and our democratic form of government, President Charles W. Steger has challenged the university to become one of the country's top 30 research institutions by the end of the decade.

Although Virginia Tech is currently organized into eight colleges — Agriculture and Life Sciences, Architecture and Urban Studies, Arts and Sciences, Pamplin College of Business, Engineering, Human Resources and Education, Natural Resources, and Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine — plans have been approved to restructure the university, which will result in the creation of a College of Biological, Mathematical, and Physical Sciences next year. Together, the colleges offer about 175 bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degree programs to approximately 26,000 undergraduate and graduate students who hail from 48 states, the District of Columbia, Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico, and 118 other countries.

Many of Virginia Tech's traditions and strengths are rooted in the university's motto, Ut Prosim ("That I May Serve") and its land-grant missions of instruction, research, and solving the problems of society through outreach and extension activities. By generating new knowledge through research and through its outreach mandate, Virginia Tech disseminates practical knowledge both in and out of the classroom, reaching beyond its student body to affect society as a whole. Virginia Tech: a university that puts knowledge to work.

Charles W. Steger • University President

When Charles W. Steger became Virginia Tech's 15th president in January 2000, it did not take long for this three-time Hokie alum to turn it up a notch. Setting his sights on joining the nation's truly elite universities, President Steger has challenged the university community to become ranked among the top 30 research universities.

"If you're not moving quickly forward, you might as well be standing still," he said upon his installation more than two years ago.

The signature initiative of his administration likely will be the Virginia Bioinformatics Institute, a new interdisciplinary research center formed by the convergence of computer science and biological research. Populated by world class researchers, the VBI already has built a contract base of more than $20 million.

Saying that future growth will come only through strategic partnerships, Steger led the formation of the World Institute for Disaster Risk Management (DRM). DRM is a partnership with the Swiss Federal Institutes of Technology (ETH) and Virginia Tech, in conjunction with the World Bank Disaster Management Facility.

Within the past year the university has joined hands to form the Virginia Tech Wake Forest School of Biomedical Engineering. Rising out of the ground now at the Virginia Tech Corporate Research Center is the Via College of Osteopathic Medicine.

A registered architect and former dean of Tech's college of architecture and urban studies, Steger was the architect of a different sort as the leader of the university's successful fund raising campaign. Under his leadership as vice president for development and university relations, the Campaign for Virginia Tech raised $337 million.

Steger's ties to Virginia Tech span four decades as a student, professor, dean, vice president, and now president. While on the faculty, he twice won teaching excellence awards. When he became dean of the college in 1981, he was the youngest architecture dean in the nation at 33 years of age.

Steger received his Bachelor and Master of Architecture and a Ph.D. in Environmental Science and Engineering from Virginia Tech.

Jim Weaver • Director of Athletics

James C. Weaver, whose innovative ideas and work as a reformer have made him one of college athletics' most popular administrators, is the director of athletics at Virginia Tech.

Weaver, 57, was appointed on September 24, 1997 and has been a tireless leader on behalf of Tech athletics. In his five years on the job at Tech, Weaver has taken steps to place increased emphasis on projects benefiting student-athletes. He created a comprehensive awards program for letterwinners and has initiated and funded an annual awards banquet.

Among Weaver's biggest accomplishments thus far has been getting Tech admitted into an all-sports conference. Tech entered competition in the BIG EAST Conference for most sports during the 2000-2001 season.

A top personal priority for Weaver is the continuing improvement of Tech's facilities, where major plans for the expansion of Lane Stadium/ Worsham Field are underway as well a brand new soccer stadium. When it comes to athletic facilities, Weaver has a simple philosophy. "As soon as you sit still in terms of facilities, you have taken a step backward," he says.

Weaver came to Tech from Western Michigan University where he was director of athletics from January, 1996 until he came to Blacksburg. Prior to that, he was AD for three and a half years at UNLV, where he reconstructed a troubled athletic department.

A native of Harrisburg, Pa., Weaver was a center and linebacker on Penn State football teams coached by the legendary Rip Engle and Joe Paterno.

Weaver graduated from Penn State in 1967 with a bachelor's in psychology and rehabilitation education. He received a master's in college counselor education, also from Penn State, in 1968.

Weaver started a coaching career as an assistant at Penn State for six seasons. He later was the offensive coordinator at Iowa State and head coach for one season at Villanova in 1974. He also spent five years as an assistant professor at Clarion State and three years as director of franchise sales at Athletic Attic.

Prior to landing the athletic director's job at UNLV, Weaver spent nine years at the University of Florida, which was sanctioned by the NCAA in 1983. He was a strong force at Florida in the field of compliance and concluded his time there as associate athletic director.

Weaver and his wife Traci have four sons — Josh, Paul, Cole and Craig.

Student Athlete Academic Support Services

The success of Virginia Tech's athletic program rests largely on the academic progress of each student-athlete. The academic performance of Tech student-athletes has improved each year due in part to the Student Athlete Academic Support Services (SAASS).

SAASS provides programming for student-athletes from their freshman year through graduation. This includes a comprehensive orientation to Tech, study hall, mentoring, tutoring, academic monitoring, academic recognition, and eligibility education.

Academic facilities for student-athletes include the Monogram Room, a large room used as a study hall area adjacent to the SAASS office in Cassell Coliseum. The HEAT (Hokies Engaging in Advanced Technology) Lab and its satellite sites house over 40 computers on the second floor and third floors of Cassell Coliseum. Laptop computers are also available for Tech athletes to use when travelling to away contests.

With the help of these resources, the Virginia Tech graduation rate for student-athletes has risen significantly in recent years and reached 71 percent in 2002 as compared to the national average of 58 percent.

Chris Helms, in his fourth year at Tech, is the director and is responsible for the development and leadership of the Student Athlete Academic Support Services office. Assistant director Renia Edwards works closely with the men's soccer team.

The Hokies' Athletic Performance Program

Under the direction of Assistant Athletic Director for Athletic Performance Mike Gentry, the Virginia Tech strength and conditioning program is among the best in the nation.

The soccer team trains mainly in the Jim "Bulldog" Haren Weight Room. Located in Jamerson Athletic Center, the Haren Weight Room is a 5,000-square foot weight room officially dedicated in September 1985. Coupled with the Merryman Center facilities, the Hokies have over 22,000-square feet of strength and conditioning training space.

Terry Mitchell, strength and conditioning coordinator of men's Olympic sports works with the soccer team.

There's much more to athletic performance than weight training. Always striving to stay on the cutting edge, Virginia Tech has added two more services in the past couple of years. At Tech, nutrition and sports psychology are also a part of the student-athlete's preparation – not just for sports, but also for life after college.

Assistant Strength
Coach (Soccer)

Sports Nutrition

Amy Freel, former coordinator of student life, became the full-time sports nutritionist in the Athletics Department in July 2002. She provides individual players with diet counseling on issues such as gaining lean muscle mass, losing body fat, and how to eat to improve performance. Freel also works with the "Training Edge" dining facility for health-conscious students and athletes to design menus for training tables.

Sports Psychology

Another recent addition to the athletics department is sports psychology. The licensed psychologists, Dr. Gary Bennett and Dr. Robert Miller, associate director of the Thomas E. Cook Counseling Center, counsel student-athletes either individually or as a team.

Office of Student Life

Jermaine Holmes
Director

The Office of Student Life at Virginia Tech, under the guidance of Jermaine Holmes, director of student life, is dedicated to enhancing the quality of the student-athlete experience through the many programs that it implements.

One program that the office sponsors is the HiTOPS CHAMPS/Life Skills Program (Hokies Turning Opportunities Into Personal Success), which provides a well-rounded program for student-athletes to develop the individual skills necessary to lead successful and productive lives.

Hokies With Heart is a program which promotes the involvement of student-athletes in community service activities. In the past year, Virginia Tech athletes participated in nearly 50 community service projects.

The Virginia Tech Student Athlete Advisory Committee (VT-SAAC) promotes effective communication between athletics administration and student-athletes to better serve their needs.

Each month, the Office of Student Life recognizes a Student-Athlete of the Month for their participation in community service projects and dedication to the Hokies With Heart program.

Sports Medicine

The Virginia Tech Sports Medicine Department, under the leadership of Dr. Gunnar Brolinson, Dr. Delmas Bolin, Dr. Duane Lagan and Mike Goforth, director of athletic training, is constantly evolving to incorporate new ideas and state-of-the-art resources for the betterment of student-athletes. A staff including general practitioners, orthopedic surgeons, certified athletic trainers, physical therapists, chiropractors, massage therapists, sports psychologists, nutritionists and orthotists, is available to manage the health care of athletes.

As part of the evolution, Tech recently completed the 4,300-square-foot Eddie Ferrell Memorial Training Room. The new facility gives the training staff a centralized area to care for the needs of all Virginia Tech student-athletes.

Student-athletes can also go to Schiffert Student Health Center to be seen by a practitioner or see an orthopedic surgeon, if necessary. If physical therapy is needed, student-athletes can rehab at the Merryman Center.

Jesse Donnenwerth is a graduate assistant athletic trainer who is working with the men's soccer team this year.

VT 2001 REVIEW

Hokies Make Noise in First Season in BIG EAST

The Virginia Tech men's soccer team burst onto the BIG EAST soccer scene in 2001 and met the opposition head on. Tech closed the season with an 11-6-2 overall mark and a 4-4-2 record against conference opponents and qualified for the BIG EAST tournament. Although they would eventually fall in double-overtime to the defending NCAA champion Connecticut, the Hokies put the BIG EAST on notice that 2001 was just a taste of the success that the program hopes to accomplish.

The Hokies opened the season in dramatic fashion on Aug. 31 on the road against Dayton. Tech battled the Flyers throughout and grabbed its first victory with a goal in the closing minute from the foot of Fred Silva. That began a four-game winning streak that set the foundation for one of the men's soccer program's most successful seasons in its 29 year history.

Tech took advantage of late-game heroics by Silva again in the win against Xavier. Silva broke a scoreless tie midway through the second half when he took a throw-in and slotted it past the Musketeer keeper.

The Hokies increased their shutout streak to three games with their 8-0 win over Elon College. Unlike the first two matches, the Hokies struck early and often against the Phoenix. Tech jumped out to an early 1-0 advantage when Garrett Owens blasted a Silva pass by the Elon keeper for the first of many goals.

Keeper Colin Kibler played a major role in the Hokies' success in their first season in the BIG EAST Conference.

Silva would go on to chart a total of five assists in the contest, shattering the old school mark of three held by Bobby Warnick. Overall, Silva amassed nine points, giving him another school record for most points in a single match. This feat won Silva BIG EAST Offensive Player of the Week honors.

Tech, as a team, produced another school record with its 3-0 shutout of intrastate rival VMI. The shutout gave the Hokies their fourth in a row, eclipsing the old school mark of three. Goalie Colin Kibler finished the contest with nine saves and his fourth shutout in as many games.

Game number five versus James Madison gave the Hokies their first loss of the season. The one bright spot came in the form of yet another broken record. Starting with the 1-0 shutout victory over East Carolina in 2000, Tech had held its opponents scoreless for over 448 consecutive minutes — a new school record.

The Hokies got their first taste of BIG EAST soccer when Boston College came to town. Tech fell to the Eagles 2-1 after battling back from an early one-goal deficit. The Hokies showed grit and determination by coming back to tie the game after an early Eagle goal. A late goal by BC dropped Tech to 4-2.

The team packed its bags and headed south to Statesboro, Ga., with hopes of breaking out of their two-game losing skid against Georgia Southern. True to early season form, the Hokies fought to a 2-1 victory after trailing early in the match. Tech wasted no time responding to the goal scored by the Eagles at the eight-minute mark. Just six minutes later, the game was deadlocked thanks to Ken Jonmaire's first career goal. Just before the halftime buzzer, Jeremy Parsels scored the go-ahead goal.

After experiencing success in the south, Tech traveled north to Syracuse, N.Y., and gained the program's first BIG EAST Conference win. The Hokies jumped on the Orangemen early when Jonmaire scored off a feed from Bobby O'Brien. Ty Enmark sealed the deal with a goal in the 75th minute and Kibler once again frustrated the opposition with his strong keeping. The win improved the team's record to 6-2 overall, but more importantly brought back the swagger of success.

The successful run continued into the next game when Tech hosted Radford. Each year the Hokies and Highlanders do battle for the "New River Rock" which had evaded Tech since 1996. A 4-0 victory over the Highlanders brought a close to the five-year drought. Jonmaire continued his torrid play by scoring in his third straight game and Silva knocked in his sixth goal of the season to lead the team to victory.

BIG EAST Tournament

Up next for the Hokies was unquestionably the hardest stretch of their schedule. Over the next four games, Tech played Seton Hall and St. John's, both nationally ranked, in addition to Georgetown on the road and Notre Dame in Blacksburg.

Tech got off to a rocky start with a 2-0 loss to the 18th-ranked Seton Hall Pirates at home and a heartbreaking 2-1 overtime loss on the road to the Hoyas. The losing streak ballooned to three games after the squad dropped a 2-0 rain-soaked match to the visiting Notre Dame Fighting Irish.

The Hokies now found themselves with a 7-5 overall record and a dreary 1-4 conference mark. On top of the losing streak, Tech next had to deal with St. John's, who came into Blacksburg ranked as the No. 4 team in the nation.

Tech stepped up to the challenge and scored a well-earned 1-1 tie against the Red Storm. The contest between the two BIG EAST squads was extremely physical at times, with the two teams combining for 48 fouls. The defensive battle turned positive for the Hokies when Enmark collected a loose ball in the box and blasted it past the St. John's keeper to give Tech a one-goal advantage just before halftime. The Red Storm would tie the match in the 69th minute, but that would be the only score Tech's defense would allow. Kibler's 16 saves was an NCAA individual game high for the 2001 season and helped earn him BIG EAST Goalkeeper of the Week honors.

The tie with St. John's spurred a six-game unbeaten streak as the Hokies began to make their move into position to make the BIG EAST tournament. Their 1-0 shutout win on the road against West Virginia gave them their second conference victory and Enmark's two goal performance versus Pittsburgh earned a much needed tie as the season began to wind down.

Kibler produced a school-record seventh shutout against Gardner-Webb with Tech's 5-0 win over the Bulldogs, but the Hokies found themselves on the outside looking in at a conference tournament bid with just two games remaining against BIG EAST opponents. With road games left against Villanova and nationally ranked Rutgers, the journey to the tournament would be an arduous road to travel, but the Hokies' determination remained high.

Tech completed the first leg of its quest with a 2-1 overtime victory over the Wildcats. O'Brien put the Hokies on the board late in the second half with his goal off of a Rob Smith pass, but the one-goal advantage soon evaporated into a 1-1 deadlock as time expired. The Hokies wasted no time in overtime, scoring just 1:31 minutes in.

Now the stage was set for a showdown between Tech and No. 14 Rutgers. A win and the Hokies qualified for the tournament — a loss and the last spot went to the Syracuse Orangemen.

Tech was up to the challenge and prevailed with a 3-2 overtime victory. In true Hokie fashion, the team battled back from a two-goal deficit thanks to a Silva goal and some last-second heroics from an unlikely source. With just 40 seconds remaining in the match, there was a scramble in front of the Rutgers net during which Tech's Bailey Allman snuck in, collected the loose ball, and chipped it into the goal to force overtime. The goal was Allman's first as a Hokie. In overtime, the combination of Silva and Enmark lifted the Hokies to the win. With just more than two-minutes remaining in overtime, Silva crossed the ball into a cutting Enmark who headed it past the Scarlet Knights goalkeeper, giving the Hokies the win.

The win secured a spot as the eighth seed for the Hokies in the BIG EAST tournament where they were matched against the defending national champion Connecticut Huskies. Tech came very close to knocking off the defending champs, but eventually fell in double-overtime, 2-1.

Despite the early exit from the tournament, the men's soccer program at Virginia Tech had one of its most successful years both as a team and at an individual level. Silva was named to the All-BIG EAST

Second Team and the All-South Atlantic Regional Team. Enmark, along with Silva, was named to the All-Virginia Division I Soccer Team and Myers was named a Verizon Academic All-American for his success in the classroom and on the pitch.

Silva finished third in the nation with a 0.71 assist-per-game average. The Hokies' defensive play, paired with Kibler's tough goal-keeping, helped him to the 28th spot in goals-against average (0.90).

Fred Silva led the Hokies in goals (9) and assists (12) last season.

VT The BIG EAST Conference

League Provides Tech Excellent Soccer Competition

In the fall of 2001, the Virginia Tech men's soccer team began play in the BIG EAST Conference. Regarded as one of the best, if not THE best soccer conference in the country, the BIG EAST affords the building Hokie soccer program the means to grow into an elite program.

As the BIG EAST Conference enters the 2002-03 season, only the 24th in its history, it takes pride in its long list of accomplishments. Providing opportunities to excel amongst the nation's best, both athletically and academically, continues to be its mission.

There was plenty of evidence of that mission being accomplished during the 2001-02 season. The BIG EAST had undefeated national champions in football and women's basketball, 32 student-athletes who earned Academic All-America honors, and two student-athletes who were named the national player of the year in their sports.

Miami won the Rose Bowl to cap a perfect 12-0 season for its fifth national title and second for the league. The Connecticut women's basketball team garnered its third national title with a record-setting 39-0 mark. That national championship gave the Conference a three-peat in women's basketball following the Huskies' second title in 2000 and Notre Dame's crown in 2001. BIG EAST teams have won 10 national championships since 1995 in six different sports.

UConn's Sue Bird was the consensus women's basketball player of the year and Erin Elbe of Georgetown was honored with the women's lacrosse player of the year award. The Notre Dame baseball team became the first conference team to play in the College World Series. The BIG EAST was the only conference to have eight teams compete in the NCAA Women's Soccer Championship.

Whether it's the student-athletes or the league as a whole, moving forward successfully and exploring new horizons have been the norm rather than the exception for the conference that opened its doors in 1979.

Most recently the league welcomed Virginia Tech as its 14th full member in 2000-01. In the spring of 2001, the BIG EAST added women's lacrosse to its growing list of sports.

The BIG EAST became a reality on May 31, 1979, following a meeting of athletic directors from Providence College, St. John's, Georgetown and Syracuse Universities. Seton Hall, Connecticut and Boston College completed the original seven school alliance.

While the membership has increased, the focus of the BIG EAST remains unchanged. It is a group that reflects a tradition of broad based programs, led by administrators and coaches who place a constant emphasis on academic integrity. The BIG EAST Conference has enjoyed a leadership role nationally. Its student athletes own significantly high graduation rates and their record of scholastic achievement notably reflect a balance between intercollegiate athletics and academics.

The BIG EAST is one of the top soccer leagues in the nation.

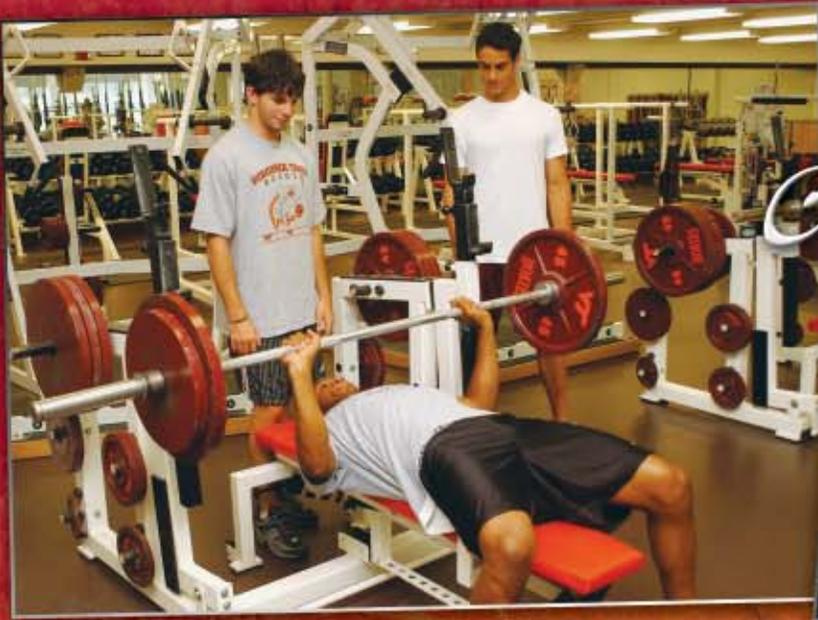

Any successful consortium enjoys outstanding leadership. Michael Tranghese, the league's first full-time employee, and for 11 years the associate of Dave Gavitt, took over the commissioner's reins in June, 1990.

BIG EAST sports attract the interest of followers in the nation's largest media markets including New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Washington, D.C., Miami, Pittsburgh and Hartford. The league has long been considered a leader in innovative concepts in promotion and publicity, particularly regarding television. Those efforts have resulted in unparalleled visibility for BIG EAST student athletes.

More than 475 BIG EAST athletes have earned All America recognition and dozens have won individual NCAA national championships. The BIG EAST has been well represented in U.S. or foreign national and Olympic teams, with several athletes earning gold medals in the summer Olympiads in Sydney in 2000, Atlanta in 1996, Barcelona in 1992, Seoul in 1988 and Los Angeles in 1984.

The BIG EAST has its headquarters in Providence, R.I., where the conference administers to more than 5,000 athletes in 22 sports.

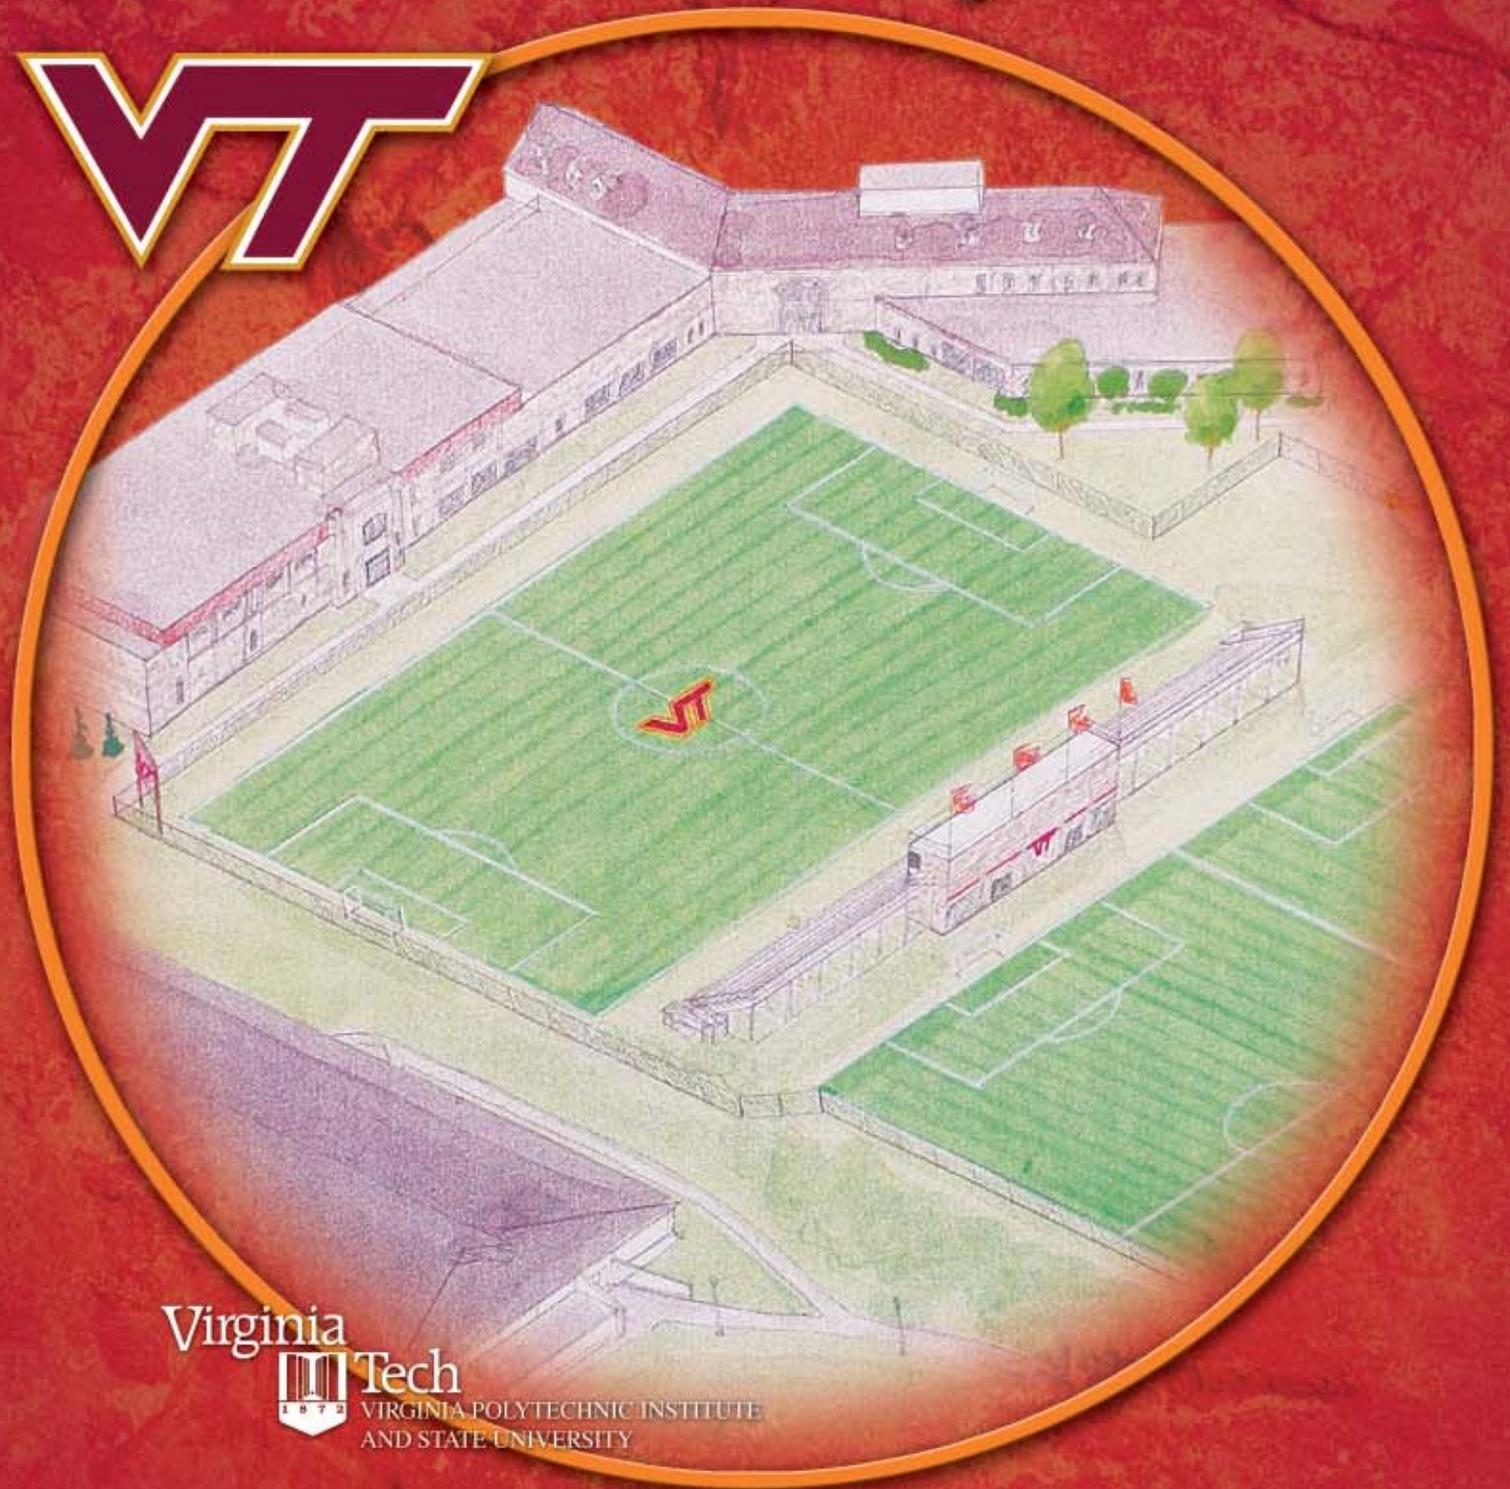

Big-Time College Athletics!

At Virginia Tech, the resources are in place to elevate the men's soccer program into the national spotlight. With outstanding athletic facilities, excellent support staff, and a great soccer conference, new coach Oliver Weiss (right) and his team are poised to compete at the highest level.
